

Proposals Include $10 Million Research Program

Nixon Launches Battle on Energy Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon called today for a 5 per cent reduction in personal consumption of energy, led by government efforts to cut energy use by 7 per cent.

The President also proposed a major government reorganization to collect energy and resource management programs in a proposed new department built around the present Interior Department.

Atomic energy development activities were to be divorced from the Atomic Energy Commission and wed to Interior's fossil-fuel research programs under a new Energy Research and Development Administration.

Energy policy-making and program coordination was to be focused through a new White House "energy czar"—Colorado's Gov. John A. Love—to be named assistant to the President and director of a new White House Energy Policy Office.

The administration also was known to be considering conversion of its voluntary gasoline and oil allocation program into a mandatory program, to assure fair distribution of short fuel supplies.

But that measure was not included in the President's energy message, according to a detailed description obtained by the Associated Press.

The President called for these steps that would affect consumers:

—A slowing down of cars on the highways to save gas.

—An easing up on summer air-conditioning to save electricity.

—And a turning down of heater thermostats in the winter to conserve fuel.

In addition to the proposed government reorganization, federal energy research would be pursued in a $10-billion program spread over five years, starting with fiscal 1975.

Other highlights of the energy message:

—Proposal of legislation to create a new Department of Energy and Natural Resources (DENR), absorbing all of the Interior Department except its energy research programs, plus components of other agencies.

—Proposal of a new Energy Research and Development Administration (ERDA) taking over the Atomic Energy Commission's $2.5 billion program of nuclear materials production, reactor development, military applications, and physical, medical and environmental research.

—Proposal of federal energy research funding to total $10 billion over five years starting in fiscal 1975; an increase of $100 million for energy research in the fiscal 1974 budget, but without increasing the total budget an indication the funds would be diverted from other programs. At least half of the $100 million would go into research on real technology.

—The Atomic Energy Commission, shorn of most of its budget and manpower, would retain only its licensing and regulatory functions and would be renamed the Nuclear Energy Commission.

—A request that states reduce legal speed limits.

—A directive that federal agencies report by July 31 what they are doing to cut energy use and that the General Services Administration make fed-through July.

eral agencies buy smaller cars for government use.

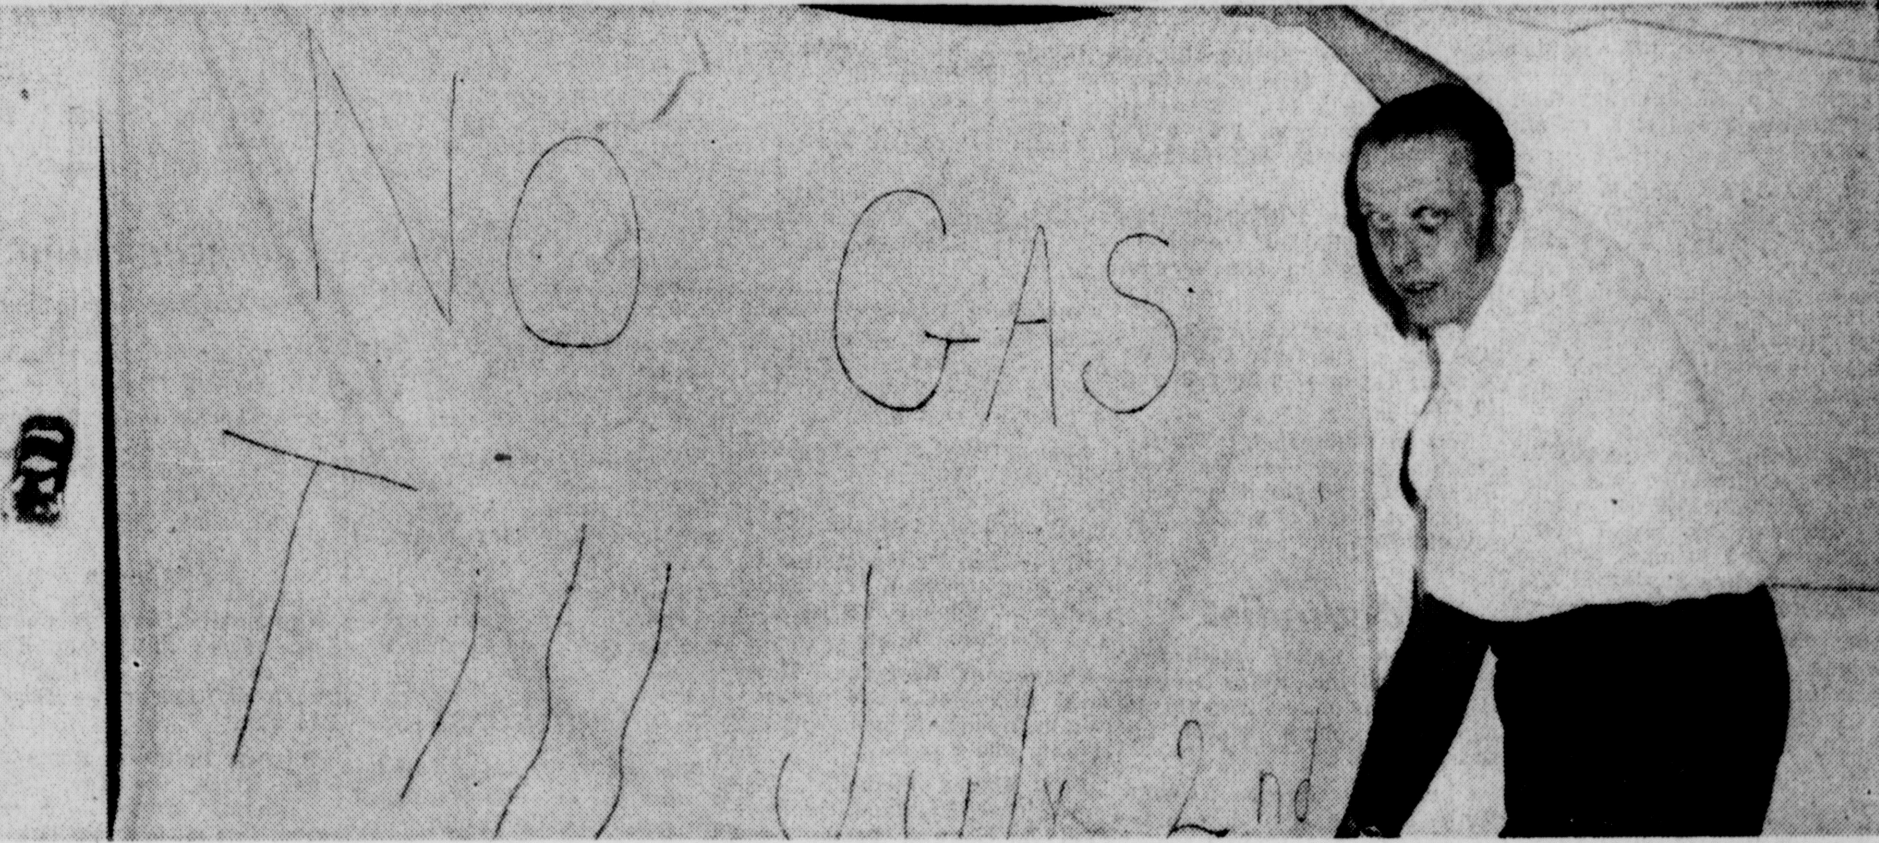

Requests to the Civil Aeronautics Board, Federal Aviation Administration and the aviation industry's Air Transport Association to seek reductions in airline flights and cruising speeds to save jet fuel.

Last April 18, Nixon issued an energy message in which he removed limits on oil imports, asked Congress to end federal price regulation of new supplies of natural gas, and asked states to postpone application of the most stringent clean-air standards so that more coal could be burned in place of scarce oil and gas.

Meanwhile, two major oil companies said Thursday they will increase their gasoline allotments throughout the country in July.

Texaco Inc. said its July distributions to dealers would be increased to 101 per cent of the amount each dealer received during the period June 1 to July 1, 1972, or 101 per cent of the amount purchased during any two consecutive months between January and May of this year.

Gulf Oil Corp. said it was raising gasoline allocations by "a reasonably large amount."

OUT OF GAS—Donald Short, owner of Short's Amoco Service Station on Foxhall and Flatbush Avenues, holds a sign notifying his customers that he's out of gas until July 2. Short, in business for 25 years, said, "I never thought I'd see the day I couldn't buy gas," a lament that may be heard increasingly throughout Ulster County this summer. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Nirenberg Reapport Motion Denied

A Supreme Court decision today put the seal of approval on the proposed Ulster County reapportionment plan, which will go before the voters in the Nov. 6 general election.

Justice Edward S. Conway denied the motion of County Legislator Alex J. Nirenberg (D-Dist. 10), who sought to have the Nov. 6 date for the vote set aside in favor of a special election.

Today's decision was the second Supreme Court defeat this month for Nirenberg, who was also unsuccessful in his bid to limit the operations of the county public relations office.

Justice Conway, in his decision, suggested that Nirenberg's argument against the November 6 date for the reapportionment referendum was made without the Ellenville lawyer's having knowledge of a previous Supreme Court order of Justice Conway on May 7, at which time he declared that the reapportionment plan is legal.

The present case was argued in Troy on Wednesday, with assistant county attorney John J. Lynch representing the county.

He was accompanied by Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8). Nirenberg reportedly was not present to argue his case, but had previously submitted briefs.

In Justice Conway's decision today, he said that the court's order of May 7 effectively provides for the status of the Ulster County Legislature through the year 1975, whether or not the reapportionment plan is passed or defeated in the next general election.

Justice Conway therefore denied Nirenberg's motion and dismissed his petition.

Nirenberg sought the show cause order, he said, because he objects to the fact that under the GOP-picked date for the vote, Ulster County residents would be approving or disapproving the redistricting plan at the same time they would be voting for legislators in the newly reapportioned districts.

"This invidious plan is to 'sell' the reapportionment by the threat of creating havoc if the voters vote 'no' since no one will know the status of the Ulster County Legislature come January, 1974," Nirenberg claimed.

He suggested further that the manner in which the referendum date was set by the Legislature, "constitutes a malicious unlawful fraud upon the electorate of Ulster County by effectively depriving them of their rights under Municipal Home Rule Law."

The makeup of the eight districts under the one-man, one-vote concept mandated by the U. S. Supreme Court is as follows:

District One — Saugerties, four legislators.

District Two — Town of Ulster and Town of Kingston, three legislators.

District Three — City of Kingston, six legislators.

District Four — Woodstock, Shandaken, Denning and Hardenburgh, two legislators.

District Five — Olive, Hurley, Marletown and Rochester, four legislators.

District Six — Esopus and Rosendale, three legislators.

District Seven — Wawarsing and Shawangunk, four legislators.

District Eight — New Paltz, Gardiner, Plattekill, Lloyd and Marlboro, seven legislators.

President's August Statement Attacked

Dean's 'Probe' Is Questioned

REFRESHER—Mrs. Maureen Dean sips a beverage as her husband, John W. Dean testifies before the Senate Watergate Committee. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., suggested today that President Nixon knew there had been no investigation when he said last Aug. 29 that a probe of the Watergate scandal indicated no one in the White House was involved.

The White House acknowledged May 16 that no such investigation was conducted.

Zeroing in on the President's August statement at the Senate Watergate hearings, Montoya closely questioned witness John W. Dean III, the ousted White House counsel who Nixon originally said had handled the internal probe.

In addition to official government investigations of the bugging of Democratic party headquarters last year, Nixon said on Aug. 29 that "under my direction, counsel to the President, Mr. Dean, had conducted a complete investigation of all leads which might involve present members of the White House staff or members of government. I can say categorically that his investigation indicates that no one on the White House staff, no one in this administration, presently employed, was involved in this bizarre incident."

Appearing for the fifth straight day at the nationally televised Senate hearings, Dean nodded and smiled faintly as Montoya read the familiar words.

"Now, I ask you this question, with respect to any project that you handled directly for the President, where a report was required, wouldn't you assume that if this is true, that you would have been required to file a report?" Montoya asked.

"Yes, sir," Dean replied.

"And also, if—assuming this was true—wouldn't that report be available at the White House?" Montoya asked.

"That is correct," Dean said.

"And so, assuming the correctness of the President's statement, then it necessarily follows that if you made a complete investigation at his behest and for him, that the President should produce that report?" Montoya asked.

"I already believe that the White House has indicated there was no Dean investigation," Dean replied. "I think that was one of the 'inoperative' statements."

The audience packed into the Senate Caucus Room broke into laughter at Dean's reference to a remark by presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who told reporters April 17 that all previous White House comments on Watergate were "inoperative."

"But it is still your testimony that you were not requested by the President to make a report to him or to conduct this investigation?" Montoya asked.

"Not at that time, senator, that is correct," Dean replied.

After Newsweek magazine published a story last month quoting Dean as saying he had made no Watergate investigation for the President, the White House conceded May 16 that no such report had been written or submitted to Nixon.

Ziegler said Nixon had requested a probe through intermediaries and had received an oral report from John D. Ehrlichman, who resigned April 30 as the President's chief domestic affairs advisor.

Dean has testified repeatedly under oath this week that he made no investigation of the scandal last summer and was not asked to prepare a report on his knowledge of it until this spring.

Montoya, one of the Watergate committee members who has stressed the importance of obtaining a personal response from the President to Dean's charges, appeared to be challenging Nixon's credibility by his questioning of Dean—and also challenging Nixon to step forward.

Thursday, he disclosed that the committee is examining the legal ramifications of a presidential subpoena. Today, he asked Dean whether the White House had also been researching the issue.

"Are you aware that anybody might have advised the President whether he is subject to another subpoena of a congressional committee?" Montoya asked.

"I have no first-hand knowledge of that, senator," Dean replied, adding that the White House since mid-March has been stressing the constitutional doctrine of separation of powers in its Watergate statements.

The White House announced Thursday the President would not appear before the Committee tee either by invitation or subpoena because to do so would be "constitutionally inappropriate."

Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., questioned Dean's earlier testimony closely, particularly a meeting Dean claimed he had with Herbert Kalmbach, Nixon's personal lawyer. Dean said the meeting took place in Kalmbach's room at the Mayflower Hotel in Washington.

Gurney produced hotel records that he said showed that Kalmbach was not registered at the Mayflower, but rather at another hotel, the Statler-Hilton.

Dean stuck to his story, claiming he met Kalmbach in the hotel coffee shop, and then went to Kalmbach's room.

The incident ended in laughter when Dean's lawyer whispered in his ear, and Dean then told the committee that he now remembered that the name of the coffee shop was the "Mayflower."

Ulster Is Hit Hard By Summer Storms

KINGSTON

A series of severe summer storms slashed through Ulster County Thursday night and early today causing flooding and fires.

Hardest hit was the Ellenville area where the initial storm struck at approximately 6 p.m. Between 6 and 9 p.m. four fires were reported there, at least two of which were directly traceable to lightning strikes.

Although the heavy rains last only 20 minutes, flooding was extensive. Trees were downed and debris washed onto roadways. Ulster Knife Co. Inc. was reported flooded as well as sections of Cape

The Army Corps of Engineers crews worked through the night at the flood control project construction site to alleviate excess water problems.

In Kingston the rains came early this morning, dumping 1.2 inches in two hours. Charles J. Cole, superintendent of the Board of Public Works, said that the usual trouble spots in the city flooded almost instantly and he anticipated flood problems throughout the day. The most serious flooding occurred on East Chester Street By-Pass at Meade Street. Traffic was detoured for a time early this morning with northbound vehicles using Lincoln Street and southbound Flatbush Avenue but was on the right route in a relatively short time. The Broadway underpass was under water for a time also.

The Rondout Creek, cresting with runoff from earlier storms in the mountains, reached high tide mark at 2:03 p.m. today.

Downed tree limbs and lightning strikes caused scattered power outages throughout the county but there were no major cases, according to Central Hudson.

A transmission line just outside the city on Route 28 was hit by lightning this morning. However, there was no interruption of service and repairs were completed today.

The forecast calls for more showers, some locally heavy, through tonight. Saturday's outlook is for partly cloudy with a 30 per cent chance of showers in the afternoon.

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The State Department of Environmental Conservation and the federal government has approved an additional expenditure of $452,600 in the city's Waste Water Treatment Plant on the Strand, raising the total cost to more than $3.3 million the Freeman learned today.

Christus Larios, of the engineering firm of Brinnier and Larios, design engineers on the project, said the "change of scope" approval came last week and will provide for the installation of "digesters" to heat and digest sludge so that it will come out in a more acceptable state. Previous plans had called for the "digesting" of sludge in greenhouses, a lengthy and inefficient method, treatment plant) to include Lake and the Millers' Extension area as well.

The end product of digestion, money for the Rondout Neighborhood Center, the new city hall and funds for snowplows can be used at the Kingston Point landfill as fill.

The total cost of the project is now pegged at $3,309,478 with the city paying 37.1 per cent or $1,224,946; the state 31.4 per cent or $1,039,976 and the federal government 31.5 per cent or $1,044,556. The additional expenditures of $452,600, included in the preceding figures, will be paid on the same percentages, costing the city another $167,900 and the state and federal governments $282,700 combined.

The city will pay its share through a bond issue but just when those bonds will be sold is still not certain. "Buddy Lyle is working on it," Mayor Francis R. Koenig said today in answer to that question. Koenig said that Lyle has been instructed to float a bond to the plant he designed to service engineers and the city of Kingston, treasurer's office ("it's about 94 per cent completed," says Orrie Riehl) indicate that work is well ahead of schedule and could be completed by September of this year.

The city's new waste water treatment plant was mandated in March of 1967 after surveys showed the city was low bidder on the Rondout Creek general construction at $2,235,000. Thomas O'Leary of Kingston was low on the electrical contract at $128,600. Bank Brothers of Accord were low on the plumbing contract at $22,425 and on the heating and ventilation contract at $44,745. Also included in the project is the cost of the project is $267,531 for "technical services," $24,312 for administrative costs and a $121,560 contingency fund of $121,560.

Contract specifications called for completion of the project by mid-1969 that the state actually began the project in November, 1972 beginning, or the order to build that of this year. However, the plant he designed to service engineers and the city of Kingston, treasurer's office ("it's about 94 per cent completed," says Orrie Riehl) indicate that work is well ahead of schedule and could be completed by September of this year.

It is expected that the city share — via a bond issue — shortly thereafter.

Former Clerk Is Indicted

KINGSTON — Ulster County Grand Jury today indicted Garry Stafford, 30-year-old former clerk in the Kingston City Treasurer's Office for grand larceny in the second degree.

Stafford is one of three city employees arrested in June in connection with the discovery of missing monies from the treasurer's office. The cases of John C. Houghtaling, principal account clerk, charged with the alleged theft of a $493.74 check and parking meter money and Fred Manuel, charged with the alleged theft of $201.36 have not been presented to the Grand Jury as yet.

Also named in the indictments handed up by Assistant District Attorney Edward M. P. Greene to County Judge Raymond J. Mino was Richard Bond Moore of Lake Katrine who in April allegedly attempted to enter Michael's Diner with a loaded shotgun and pistol. He was indicted for criminal possession of a dangerous weapon and dangerous instrument two counts.

Also, Michael John Nealov of the Wallkill Correctional Institution, who had been released on furlough from the facility, was indicted for allegedly absconding from temporary release in the first degree.

Stafford, who was clerk in the City Treasurer's Office for eight months, also faces charges in Dutchess County for alleged issuance of $800 in bad checks in 1970.

A resident of 180 Delaware

Avenue, Kingston, Stafford was degree grand larceny in connection with money missing from taxpayer's accounts. The second degree larceny indictment involves an amount in excess of $1,500.

Court Rules on Stewart

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Metropolitan Transportation Authority will be required to seek Federal Aviation Agency approval of all proposed changes to Stewart Airport that might affect its safety, utility and efficiency.

"As a practical matter, advance approval by the FAA would seem desirable," the U.S.

Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Thursday. "Were the MTA to be allowed to proceed without approval, millions of dollars might be wasted in the event that its modifications were disapproved."

The three-judge appeals court affirmed the ruling by U. S. District Court Judge Sylvester J. Ryan concerning the former Air Force base in Orange County, about 55 miles north of New York City.

In its appeal, the MTA disputed the "veto power" of the FAA in the proposed development of the metropolitan area's fourth jet airport. The MTA said it would not have agreed to give the FAA control of MTA plans when the air base was transferred to the state in August, 1970.

Three Survive Plane Crash

LINCOLN, Vt. (UPI) — A trucking company employee walked halfway down Mt. Abraham Thursday to seek help for his two companions after their single-engine plane crashed in this ski resort area.

State police said the Cessna Skylane 182 came down on top of the mountain about 10 a.m.

Donald Hemmer, 37, of Cornwall-on-Hudson, N.Y., walked more than a mile down the mountain until he came upon logger Lawrence Felton, who went for help. Rescue workers drove four-wheel drive vehicles to the scene and, by 1:30 p.m., Hemmer, William Wickline, 49, also of Cornwall-on-Hudson, and pilot Ernest Kastelick, 46, of New Windsor, N.Y., were en route to the Vermont Medical Center in Burlington.

All were treated and released.

Hemmer was identified as a branch manager for Mack Trucking Co. in Newburgh, N.Y., and Wickline as a salesman for the firm.

Police said the plane was en route from Twin Mountain, N.H., to Stewart Field at Newburgh. No cause was given for the crash, but a state police spokesman said the plane was pretty well damaged.

Fuchsberg Nearing Official Primary Win

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)—Manhattan lawyer Jacob D. Fuchsberg — the only one of four Democratic candidates for chief judge of the state Court of Appeals who has no previous judicial experience—is a step closer to being the party's official nominee for the office in the November general election.

State Supreme Court Justice John H. Pennock Thursday dismissed an appeal for a new election sought by U.S. District Court Judge Jack B. Weinstein, who lost to Fuchsberg by a razor-thin 755 votes out of 780,193 cast in the June 4 statewide primary.

Pennock said the "minor irregularities" cited by Weinstein "would not have affected the outcome" of the election.

Weinstein went to court last week in an effort to obtain a new statewide primary on the ground of irregularities in the election. He did not charge any fraud.

Final figures released by the state secretary of state's office showed Fuchsberg with 242,794 votes to 242,039 votes for Weinstein. Two other candidates in the four-way race for chief judge of the state's highest court — Appellate Division Justice Francis T. Murphy Jr. and State Supreme Court Justice

Irwin R. Brownstein — received 213,735 and 81,625 votes respectively.

"There was no proof of fraud or irregularity," Pennock said in his ruling, "and any proof that was presented would have sustained only minor irregularities and would not have affected the outcome."

Weinstein had complained that Fuchsberg, who was listed first on the ballot in areas outside New York City, had received more "white space" around his name on the Erie County ballot — and that several hundred persons had been allowed by court order to vote in New York City.

Wantough Man Ordered to Jail

MONTICELLO, N.Y. (UPI)—Michael Zafarano, 50, of Wantough was ordered jailed for 30 days Thursday for refusing to answer questions from a grand jury probing a gangland-style murder near this Sullivan County community.

State Supreme Court Justice John Larkin imposed the sentence after Zafarano ignored his orders, and declined to testify, citing the First, Fourth and Fifteenth Amendments to the Constitution.

The panel is probing the death last Aug. 9 of Carlo Lombardi, 27, of New York City, a reputed underworld figure. Lombardi's body, and a young woman, who was wounded, were found in a car parked on a rural road.

The grand jury has already returned indictments against two men, charging them with murder and attempted murder.

Nicholas Musolino of New York City is being held in the county jail awaiting trial, and Peter Salanardi of New York City is being sought.

BALLOT BOX DELIVERY — A Belfast election official hurries from an armored military vehicle and into City Hall in Belfast, Ireland, with a ballot box from voting to elect a 78-seat power-sharing Assembly for Northern Ireland. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Voting Is Heavy In Northern Ireland

BELFAST (UPI) — Authorities today estimated 75 per cent of the Northern Ireland electorate turned out for Thursday's assembly vote despite "extremist" attempts to frighten voters away with gun and mortar attacks.

Cordons of soldiers and armored cars surrounded Belfast City Hall and 11 other election centers across the province today as ballots were brought in by armored car convoys for counting.

Election officials said the first results of Thursday's poll to choose a new 78-member provincial assembly would be known later today.

"Whatever the outcome, the turnout shows once again the people of Northern Ireland prefer the ballot to the bullet," one election official said. He estimated 75 per cent of the 1,030,000 electorate voted.

In scattered violence during the voting, two mortar rounds exploded near a polling station in a Belfast Protestant area, snipers fired on a polling station in Londonderry's Catholic Roman Catholic Creggan area and a hurled blast bomb exploded near another polling station in Londonderry's Catholic Bogside area.

None of the attacks caused casualties but a British soldier was wounded in the arm in a sniper attack on a patrol near another polling station in Londonderry's Creggan area, a British army spokesman said.

A police spokesman said of the Belfast mortar attack: "This was clearly an attempt to kill people going to a school being used for voting. Miraculously there was no one in the school playground where the shells hit. But a few seconds later way and mothers with children might have been killed."

Thursday's balloting was based on proportional representation in an attempt to give Northern Ireland's Catholic minority a fairer share in government and thereby help to end four years of strife among Catholics, Protestants and security forces that has claimed 838 lives.

From the new provincial assembly, Britain hopes, will emerge a new Northern Ireland government based on the principle of "power sharing" between Protestants and Catholics.

Ship Passengers Fight Epidemic

MIAMI (UPI) — The cruise ship Skyward steamed toward Miami at full speed today, fighting a diarrhea epidemic among its 1,000 passengers and crewmen with 36 pounds of paregoric air-dropped by the Coast Guard.

The ship's captain cut short a Caribbean tour Thursday morning, bypassing a scheduled stop in the Bahamas, when the ailment struck nearly all of the 720 passengers and over half of the 300-man crew.

The ship's doctor first reported the ailment after a Monday stop at Cape Haitian, Haiti. By Thursday morning, the ailment had swept most of those aboard the 525-foot ship as it cruised off the northern coast of the Dominican Republic.

Al Wolf, a spokesman for the Norwegian-Caribbean Cruise Lines, said the Skyward was expected to arrive at the port of Miami around midnight tonight.

The ship will be met by two doctors from the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) in Atlanta, and U.S. Quarantine Service officials headed by Francis Scally.

Scally said that while he is "sure the people aboard the ship are miserable," there was no cause for alarm or concern. He said the passengers and crew were getting good treatment from the ship's doctor, along with two physicians who were passengers and volunteered to help.

Doctors at the NCDC theorized the outbreak was caused by some type of highly infectious intestinal virus.

Wolf said quarantine officers at both San Juan, P.R., and St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, had checked the ship's food and water supply and had tentatively ruled out these as the probable cause of the outbreak.

The Coast Guard, after learning of the plight of the ship, airdropped 36 pounds of paregoric to the ship Thursday night, along with a quantity of a commercial thirst quencher to combat some dehydration doctors say usually accompanies severe diarrhea.

"Despite the obvious discomfort to those aboard, none are in serious condition or in need of being evacuated from the ship," Wolf said.

Wolf said he had been advised the virus "is probably a 24-hour thing that will probably have run its course by the time the Skyward arrives back in Miami."

According to Space Program Director

'Skylab Data Will Aid Energy'

HOUSTON (UPI) — The world's balance of nature is out of whack, but the knowledge gained from Skylab may help man put it back in order, according to space center's program director.

"The benefits (of Skylab) as of today are nothing more than the technology that has been developed," Kenneth S. Kleinknecht, program director at the Johnson Space Center, said Thursday in a news conference. "But man will benefit from now on from that technology. We had another unparalleled success in Skylab.

He said by applying the data obtained by Skylab space pioneers Charles "Pete" Conrad, Joseph Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz in their record-breaking 28-day spaceflight, "We can better manage the resources and ecology of the Earth. We can all realize the ecological balance in the world is in jeopardy and anything that helps is good."

Kleinknecht said it was significant the nation had flown its first space station and learned it's easier for man to work in space than expected.

"Many more things worked better than I thought they would," he said. "We found it's a lot easier to work in space than we expected."

The chief astronaut physician, Dr. Royce Hawkins, said veteran space flier Conrad had the least problem readapting to gravity, and he had also gotten more inflight exercise than his fellow crewmen.

Hawkins said he's recommending two other Skylab crews scheduled to man the giant orbiting ship for 56 days each this year get more exercise on their trips.

He said one interesting finding was that the astronauts didn't become dizzy in space while performing head movements as they sat in a whirling chair. They became dizzy before the flight on the ground when the chair was rotating only half as fast and they made the same movements.

The Skylab mission scientist, astronaut Robert Parker, said the officials are "extremely pleased with the first data," still being analyzed, from the space station's Earth resources and sun-watching instruments.

Another official, Richard Wilmarth, director of Earth resources experiments, said the complex instruments used to take detailed, closeup pictures of the globe all operated well. He said at least one use investigators think they can make of one of the instruments is in predicting the wave heights and wind velocity of tropical storms.

Sonic Booms From Israeli War Planes

By United Press International

Two Israeli warplanes flew over the south Lebanon port city of Sidon today and caused sonic booms that shattered window panes in the city's eastern outskirts, witnesses said.

The reports came a day after Cairo claimed its gunners shot down one of two Israeli warplanes that invaded Egyptian air space over the Suez Canal. Israel denied that accusation as a "double lie" but had no immediate comment on today's reports from Lebanon.

Newsmen in Sidon said the planes passed over the city at medium altitude in a northerly direction and later returned by the same route at sub-sonic speed.

The district where window panes were reported broken contains two Palestinian refugee camps, Ain el Telwa and Miyeh wa Miyeh.

A military spokesman in Cairo said Egyptian air defenses brought down an Israeli Phantom jet fighter-bomber, one of two that encroached on Egyptian territory in the late afternoon, near Fayed in the canal's southern sector. The spokesman said the plane exploded in air and was seen crashing in flames on the Israeli-held eastern bank of the canal.

A military spokesman in Tel Aviv said several Egyptian surface-to-air missiles were fired at Israeli planes flying a routine patrol on the Israel side of the waterway Thursday but that all aircraft returned safely.

He said the Cairo reports that Israeli planes flew into Egyptian air space and that one of them was shot down constituted a "double lie" and added: "The air force planes did not try to penetrate the Egyptian area and no aircraft was shot down."

Elsewhere, Palestinian guerrilla sources in Beirut said their forces early Thursday opened fire on an Israeli boat that approached the Lebanese coast of Sidon.

The sources said the firing continued for 40 minutes and the Israeli boat, about two miles offshore, sped off without returning the fire.

Gross Sentenced to Three Years

NEW YORK (AP) — Ted Gross, former commissioner of the city's Youth Services Agency, has begun a three-year prison term after having publicly apologized for taking kickbacks on city contracts.

"I want to take this opportunity to apologize to the people of New York City, whose confidence I betrayed," Gross said Thursday just before he was sentenced in state Supreme Court.

"I want to apologize to my very close friends who had trust in me," he added.

Second Thought Wins Million

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Rose Ann Sutton had second thoughts about a discarded lottery ticket, so she retrieved it. Now she and her husband are $1 million richer.

Mrs. Sutton, Fairchance, Pa., said her husband "got the numbers mixed up one day last May and told me to throw this ticket away, and I tore it in half and put it in the garbage can."

"For some reason I asked him to check the number again

Gross, 41, was to be transported today to the Ossining Correctional Facility at Ossining, N.Y., formerly known as Sing Sing.

Justice Gerald P. Culkin sentenced Gross to three years in prison after the prosecutor, Asst. Dist. Atty. Lothar R. Genge, said Gross had refused to cooperate with an investigation of possible criminal activity within the city administration.

The balding, goateed defendant, one of the city's highest-ranking blacks, was indicted Feb. 20 on charges of receiving $41,400 in kickbacks during the 16 months he headed the YSA.

He had resigned from his $35,000-a-year post in October and two months ago he pleaded guilty to taking $2,500 in bribes from the Urbanomics Corporation, a management consultant firm here.

"This is not a typical criminal case," said Genge, who asked the judge to impose a five-year sentence on Gross. "This involves a public official who violated a public trust. He had a special particular trust he owed to the disadvantaged youth of this city that he had sworn to help."

He asserted that Gross had "solicited and received bribes and kickbacks out of pure greed and avarice, not out of any economic need or necessity."

Gross's lawyer, Harold Borg, said the district attorney's investigation into possible criminal activity in the administration was a fishing expedition and that Genge's remarks had "slandered every city official Mr. Gross knows."

Genge said Gross was the highest official within the Lindsay administration to go to prison since former Water Commissioner James Marcus, also caught taking kickbacks.

The city has filed a civil suit seeking to regain $259,000 it claims Gross misappropriated.

Urge Nixon to Answer Charges by Dean

Newspapers 'Shocked' Over Enemy List

By United Press International

A number of newspapers said editorially Thursday and today that they were shocked to learn of the White House "political enemies" list. Many said it was high time that President Nixon step forward and answer questions brought up during the Senate Watergate hearings.

One newspaper, however, said testimony by John W. Dean III that the White House ordered an FBI investigation of CBS newsman Daniel Schorr was "far from surprising."

"However remote a punitive

White House move against a newsman may have seemed in 1971 to the public, in view of recent revelations, it seems more like a routine type of operation," said an editorial in the Rutland, Vt., Daily Herald.

The Chicago Sun-Times and the New York Daily News called for Nixon to give a public answer quickly to Dean's charges.

"The accusation that President Nixon was involved in a criminal effort to obstruct justice in the Watergate case... can only be answered by the President himself," the Sun-Times said. "It is urgent that he respond to Dean's charges, and that in so doing he make more than a mere television statement."

The Daily News said that Nixon has the right to keep quiet, "but this is hardly the occasion to stand on the niceties of due process...."

"Like it or not, this case has been thrown into the court of public opinion, and Mr. Nixon owes a full, frank accounting to that tribunal," the News said.

Both the Washington Star-

News and Salt Lake City's Desert News cautioned the public not to jump to conclusions on the basis of Dean's testimony.

"Can John Dean be believed?" asked the Star-News. "By his own account, he is capable of a championship style of lying."

The Desert News said there were holes in Dean's testimony.

"On Monday, for example, Dean maintained that in March the President ordered a cover-up of the Watergate scandal but didn't seem to know what he was doing. On Tuesday, Dean testified that Mr. Nixon not only knew about the cover-up but knew about it as early as last fall," the News said.

The Miami Herald said, "The Watergate drama has produced no more disgusting act in the process of undermining democracy than these virtual lettres de cachet, a device of the Bourbon kings whose reigns, it appears, have come alive again in the White House."

The Washington Post said, "Three times now Mr. Nixon has addressed the public on what he is pleased to call the 'deplorable' Watergate incident. It is not an incident; it is a way of life we are learning about."

The New York Times said after learning from Dean's testimony that the Internal Revenue Service was asked to make punitive use of income tax audits, "every citizen can get a little taste of the atmosphere of a secret-police state."

The Times called for a separate investigation of the IRS and a review of existing tax laws.

Report Revolt Is Crushed

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — The government announced Thursday night it had crushed the first military revolt against the 2½-year-old leftist regime of President Salvador Allende with the arrest of nine persons.

Defense Minister Jose Toha said seven army sergeants from the powerful Santiago-based 2nd Division "planned to take their units into the streets with the object of provoking the fall of the government."

Toha told a special senate internal security hearing that two other men had been arrested in the plot. He did not say whether they were civilians or soldiers.

Toha's disclosure of the "barracks revolt" climaxed a turbulent series of political and military developments in the past few days, including a purported assassination attempt Wednesday against the army's commander in chief, Gen. Carlos Prats.

The last military uprising in Chile occurred in October in 1969 when an army regiment demanded higher pay from Allende's predecessor, Eduardo Frei. Soldiers demonstrated publicly and two days later, the government offered concessions to the troops.

Weicker Accuses White House With Intimidation Attempts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. shuffled the papers in front of him, looked at John W. Dean III and said that he was "a little mad" at what he called White House attempts to intimidate the senator.

There was Yankee fire in the eyes of the first-term senator, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee. He leveled new charges against the White House Thursday and before he finished, he had produced such a ringing defense of his own Republican party that even Democrats joined in the ovation accorded his performance.

In what began as a rather routine cross-examination of Dean, the fired White House counsel, Weicker shifted into high drama by departing from his questions and reading into the committee record a March 28 tape-recorded conversation between then Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst and presidential assistant John D. Ehrlichman.

In that talk, Ehrlichman expressed concern that Weicker might be on to White House involvement in the Watergate affair. But Kleindienst assured Ehrlichman that Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., had "told him to shut up." Baker is vice chairman of the committee.

At another point, Ehrlichman told Kleindienst that "the President's feeling is that it would not be too bad for you in your press conferences... to take a swing at that and just say we contacted the senator (Weicker) and it turns out he doesn't have anything."

Both Weicker and Baker denied that the Tennessee had tried to intercede. Beside that documented call Weicker went on about several other attempts that he said were made to intimidate or discredit him and impede the Senate investigation. These included fabricated stories circulated by former White House aide Charles Colson.

Colson, said Weicker, had tried to lure a newsman into saying that Weicker had misused funds contributed to him through the White House in his 1970 campaign.

Colson, who left the White House in March, denied the charge.

Weicker said there had been attempts as well to smear him through rumors that he was disloyal to the party and, in fact, planned to become a Democrat.

The senator said he had demanded of the White House earlier Thursday that it either "step forward and make a specific charge" against him or "disavow these attempts to smear a member of this committee."

He said he had communicated with Archibald Cox, the special Watergate prosecutor, and he contended that a law prohibiting obstruction of a congressional investigation may have been violated.

As for his allegiance to the GOP, Weicker turned away from his notes and, in emotional tones, made this declaration: "I say before you, and I say before the American people and this committee, I am here as a Republican."

"And quite frankly, I think that I express the feelings of the 42 other Republican senators that I work with and the Republicans in the state of Connecticut and in fact the Republican party far better than these illegal, unconstitutional and gross acts committed over the past several months."

"Let me make it clear—I've gotta have my partisan moment—Republicans do no cover and threaten.

"And God knows, Republicans don't view their fellow Americans as enemies to be harassed."

"Brother, I can assure you that this Republican—and those I serve with—look upon every American as human beings to be loved. And won."

With that, the Caucus Room erupted with applause.

Sen. Kennedy Undecided

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy says it remains an "open question" whether he will run for President in 1976. He won't make up his mind until after next year's midterm congressional elections.

The Massachusetts Democrat discussed the matter in an interview broadcast Thursday night over the Public Broadcasting Service.

"I realize at some time I'm going to have to make hard judgments about these particular matters, and I will," Kennedy told interviewer Elizabeth Drew.

Kennedy said the time to announce a decision "obviously" would not come until "sometime after" the 1974 midterm elections. He said he recognized the "responsibility" of making his position clear. He then was asked if he ruled out the possibility of running.

"Well, I'm going to make a statement, you know, about it," Kennedy said. "But it's still sort of an open question, certainly in my mind."

Kennedy said he believed that the greatest tragedy of the Watergate scandal was the mentality that corrupted the political process and used such agencies as the FBI, the CIA and the Internal Revenue Service "which have traditionally been beyond politics" for partisan purposes.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 29, 1973

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — White House insiders can hardly believe that Larry Higby has managed to ride out the Watergate storm, avoid the public spotlight and keep his job as a presidential deputy. Under the Byzantine regime of former staff chief H. R. Haldeman, the brusque, bookish Higby, still in his 20s, occupied the catbird's seat. He was Haldeman's Haldeman. Few got past Haldeman into see the President; few got past Higby into see Haldeman. They were known around the White House as "Big H" and "little h."

Taking his cue from

Haldeman, "little h" was curt, arrogant, insensitive. Senators have complained to us that their calls to the President would be routed through Higby who handled them abruptly and, on at least one occasion, he kept a prominent senator on hold. Higby was totally involved in almost everything Haldeman did. Haldeman even stopped by in his White House limousine to pick up Higby in the mornings and to drop him off at his home in the evenings. Our White House sources insist Higby couldn't possibly have been unaware of Haldeman's Watergate involvement.

Specifically, they claim that Haldeman's political aide, Gordon Strachan, who allegedly submitted the Watergate reports to Haldeman, went through Higby almost without exception. However, Higby has told the Senate Watergate investigators quite a different story. He has sworn that he was not privy to the Watergate information, that Strachan dealt directly with Haldeman on this subject.

Both Haldeman and Strachan have left the White House under a cloud, but Higby remains on the payroll in good standing. Indeed, he received a pay raise last February.

Footnote: Long after Haldeman's departure, he continued to visit Higby almost daily at the White House. Higby refused to talk to us. Through a press spokesman, however, he denied any involvement in the Watergate affair. He explained that he continued to see Haldeman to help tie up loose ends.

REST HOUSES: While most Americans vacation at overpriced and overcrowded resorts packed next to their neighbors like coins in a pocket, a few well-connected bureaucrats are able to loll in the nation's most picturesque spots — with the taxpayers picking up most of the tab.

From the lofty vistas of the Grand Tetons to delightfully deserted stretches of beach in the Virgin Islands, bigwigs from Congress, the White House and the government departments can enjoy the national parks in style.

The National Park Service, always ready to appease the powerful, operates 10 "rest houses" where VIPs can cavort without having to worry about the high cost of living.

The big guns of the Nixon Administration have shown a special affinity for Camp Hoover in the Shenandoah National Park not far from Washington. Among those who have relaxed at this sylvan retreat are Attorney General Elliot Richardson, acting FBI Director William Reuckelshaus, Deputy Budget Director Fred Malck and, on a slow weekend, Ronald Walker, who heads the park service.

Others have ventured as far as St. Johns or St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands to soak up the sun during the winter months. Supreme Court Justice William Rehnquist, White House telecommunications czar Clay Whitehead and Guy Simpler, an assistant to Interior Secretary Rogers Morton, are among the winter tourists who enjoyed the surf and sand during the expensive season for only $10 a day. This modest fee included the services of a government-paid caretaker.

Another visitor to the islands, Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., was irritated when other VIPs on the waiting list cut short his stay after only two weeks at the waterfront haven.

At Brinkerhoff Lodge in the Grand Tetons, the bill goes up to $45 a day for the park service's most luxurious villa. But those who have stayed there find it a bargain. The price includes maid service as well as a park ranger at the bureaucrat's beck and call.

None of these quarters, of course, are available to the millions of ordinary Americans who visit the parks.

Footnote: The park service would like to close down these fancy villas if the pampered bigwigs would permit it.

Inside Report

Devastation by Dean

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The political potency of the drama played out by John W. Dean III on national television became clear when Republican members of Congress installed a portable TV set in the House cloakroom and, ignoring the debate on the floor, hung on every word uttered by President Nixon's ousted White House counsel.

At the end of the second day of Dean's gripping testimony, the consensus among these Republicans — and many others we talked to inside and outside the Nixon administration — reluctantly gave Dean high marks as a witness.

That is, his testimony, though still far from thoroughly tested, was buttressed with an impressive array of seeming fact, which gave it, in the view of these Republicans, substantial credibility.

Thus, a climax of historic political importance is in the making in the tortuously long Watergate story: Mr. Nixon's own party leaders may soon be confronted with the nightmare choice of continuing to back a President credibly accused of obstructing justice (incidentally risking the obloquy of substantial numbers of their constituents back home) or of ending their support of the party's and the nation's leader.

As one of the President's own congressional leaders told us, "It is getting tougher every day" to stick with the President. The testimony of Dean, we went on, has had "a devastating impact."

The White House itself holds similar sentiments. One hardline Nixon defender told us, "I think this week may determine whether the Nixon administration is destroyed or not. What gives the appraisal special significance is the fact this particular White House staffer until now was highly optimistic that the President would prevail against what he called 'the stool pigeon' — John Dean."

Other Republicans, both in Congress and the White House, are more tentative. They feel nothing Dean has said by itself can force the President to resign or result in his impeachment. The credibility of Dean's testimony, according to this opinion, requires corroboration by a future witness of at least some major parts of his charges against Mr. Nixon.

The only future witness who might supply that corroboration appears to be John N. Mitchell, former Attorney General and presidential campaign manager. As we reported a month ago, the White House then was becoming uneasy about Mitchell's reliability. Now, that uneasiness has been increased by Dean's testimony that the "sum and substance" of his March 21 meeting with H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman was to make Mitchell the fall guy.

"If Mitchell were to step forward," Dean testified, "we might not be confronted with the activities of those in the White House involved in the cover-up." That testimony by Dean, purporting to be the inner White House plot to save the President's skin — and Haldeman's and Ehrlichman's — might be the catalyst persuading Mitchell himself to sing.

Mitchell might give the Senate Watergate committee corroboration on two points of Dean's testimony — that Mr. Nixon agreed to executive clemency for E. Howard Hunt and to the payment of "hush money" for Hunt and other Watergate conspirators. The consensus among Republican Congressmen is that if Mitchell does, public defense of the President would become politically suicidal.

Even without corroboration of Dean's testimony, Mr. Nixon may now be crippled as President of the United States. All over Washington this week, the offices of senior administration officials have been closed to routine business, their telephones turned off for all but emergency calls and their office television sets turned on. The reason: morbid fascination with Dean's testimony and the efforts of the President's dwindling defenders to prove Dean a liar and crack his credibility.

Thus, no matter what Mitchell says when he now takes the stand, Dean's testimony may have finally broken the self-confidence of the Nixon administration. If that has happened, the President's painful choice lies between resignation or a presidency crippled far into the future.

Rescuing the Art of Reading

I shout in a whisper. Few listen; fewer understand. Once a year for the past 17, I have begged the parents of America to make their children read. They are failing, failing, failing. Less than 50 per cent of our youngsters in high school and college can pass a comprehensive reading test.

The New York Times is so alarmed that it ran a story on page one stating that a national survey of schools depicted our younger generation as semi-illiterate. I am sure that parents by the thousands skipped it to bone up on Watergate or the fact that Cleveland had dropped a doubleheader to Kansas City.

May I point out to you, as politely as possible, that all of man's knowledge is in the written word? Unless the student feels a desire to read about those subjects in which he feels an interest, he will be a perennial novice and will learn to live on a vocabulary of 900 words.

Part of the monumental mistake must be attributed to elementary schoolteachers. They jam knowledge into the ears of little ones within a time slot — 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The future of the child depends upon the foundations these teachers build.

Little ones are seldom receptive to learning. School is a daily prison — a place where the law insists that boys and girls must serve time. Few enjoy it. Many teachers lack dedication; they haven't the time to intrigue the slow student into a state of mind called "I-Want-to-Know."

Penmanship has become indecipherable. Spelling is phonetic. Mathematics is a mystifying assortment of numbers which, if properly managed, render a solution to a problem. History is events, dates, names — nothing more. No story.

There is an old truism that if you don't master the fundamentals, the further you go the less comprehension you will have. A concert pianist spends an hour running over simple scales before appearing at symphony hall. In high school, no teacher says: "Now let's go back for a moment to the foundations of simple writing, simple reading, and the origins of arithmetic." There is no time for refreshers.

The children are in knowledge factories. There are progressive curricula for each grade. Unless a student can keep abreast of the factory production schedule, he fails or drops out.

If there is a fault within the teaching system, there is a greater one among parents. The sum extent of interest is to scan the number of books the kid brings home, to ask whether he did his homework, and to glance at a monthly report card. Once in a while, a father or mother will "help" junior with his tasks.

I spend considerable time with corporate executives. I do not know three who haven't said: "I have no time to read." These are successful men. They think that Bangladesh is a bongo drummer. All of them have cast-iron opinions about politics, international affairs, and how to chisel on income tax.

These are the upper-crust Americans. Almost all of them boast, "I haven't read a book in — let's see..." My generation is beyond salvation. Through greed and mismanagement it has done more to reduce this world to smoky ruin than all previous generations back to the cave.

My hope lies in the next generation. To learn, it must read. It is not necessary for a child to start by reading good books. Let him read the trash of his choice, so long as he reads. His natural mental hunger will force him upward to better books.

Words are tools. The more he has, the better he will be able to communicate. Nor is it necessary for him to speak in precise sentences. But he has to do better than to say "Like, man, ..." and "Ripoff" and "Okay." Let the child build his personal library — even if, at the start, all of it is junk. At least he will read, and reading is word-learning.

Man, unlike all other animals, has devised two ways of imparting information: orally and in the written word. There is a third way — personal experience, but why take the risk of trying something if it has already been proved to be disastrous? In school he can depend on oral teaching, but frequently neither his ears nor his mind is open to it.

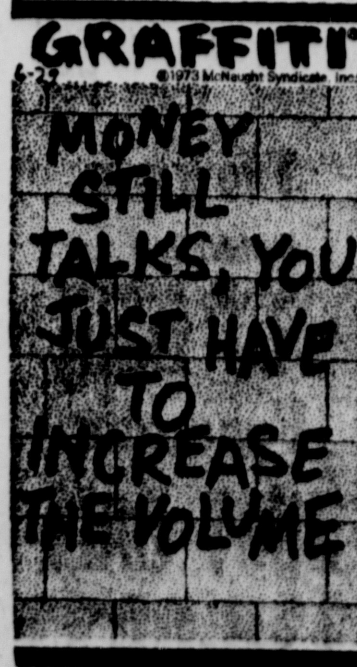

If the child is permitted to read the things which are of interest to him (without criticism) he will by the natural laws of progression move on to the daily newspaper, magazines which cater to his desires, and on to books.

Books are long-term friends. They remain silent on a shelf as long as you please. They speak only when you take them down and open the covers. You can't have a more considerate friend...

Seven POW Graves in Camp Drum Forest Clearing

WATERTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Seven prisoners-of-war dead lie in a forest clearing of the Camp Drum military reservation, their individual histories, the question of why their bodies were never returned to their homelands obscured through the dispersal of documents and the passing of people.

The official files of these World War II POWs—six German, one Italian—who died while imprisoned at the camp in 1944 and 1945, have long been closed and presumably lodged in one of the vast record repositories of the U.S. Army.

At the camp, only a few scraps of correspondence on the subject linger in office folders. And the county historian knows little more than the whereabouts of the burial ground—a small grassy plot enclosed by a wire fence and seven simple headstones inscribed with the names of the prisoners and their dates of death.

But two women living near reservation know the stories of these dead.

"The weeds were growing taller than the headstones," Mrs. Lois Weister said last week, recalling the time 16 years ago when she saw the burial plot "going to rack and ruin."

She and a friend, Mrs. Alice Spearance, did more than have the grass moved and a fence built around the gravesites.

"After cutting through the red tape," the two women obtained the addresses of the dead men's next-of-kin and sent letters describing the graves and how they were being cared for. They asked whether flowers might be placed on the graves at special times.

"I never believed I'd hear anything from the grave of my husband. I don't know how to believe that someone in a far land will keep it in care," wrote the wife of Franz Heitmann.

"In my thoughts you are a very good woman for lonesome, dead soldiers," replied Mrs. Christian Huppertz.

All but one of the POWs relatives wrote and an exchange of letters, photographs and small gifts began. Any bitterness left over from the war and the internment was absent. Whatever their experiences at war, the POWs at Camp Drum, and presumably those who died among them, led a tolerable existence.

The POWs nearly 1,000 at what was then known as Pine Camp, lived in concrete compounds, spending their "hours of confinement" in cells similar to those looked after by the sheriff in a Western. The prisoners reportedly elected their own leaders and each compound had a non-commissioned officer-in-charge.

A number of the POWs at the camp and at 18 branch camps across New York state worked for private employers who paid the government for the labor.

Work included weeding onions, harvesting the pea crop, cutting pulpwood for the St. Regis Paper Co. and clearing snow off the streets of Watertown.

According to newspaper accounts, prisoners were paid 80 cents a day for their efforts.

One newspaperman wrote in June 1945, that POWs were "toiling 10 hours a day to increase the nation's food supply while they eat far less than the average American."

"But the prisoner 'master menus' for April 19, 1945, for example, included headcheese, liverwurst, cheese, potato salad (German), coffee, milk, sugar and prunes. And some prisoners were allowed, under escort, to eat meals with Watertown families. Joseph P. Venezia, a civilian employe at Drum, recalled.

Authorities were worried, he said, that some of the POWs might escape to avoid repatriation.

SFC Jerry Campana, a reservist at Drum this summer who acted as an interpreter for Italian POWs, remembered prisoner treatment as "fantastic."

One of the few recorded instances of punishment came in July 1945, when POWs working on a pea crop harvest in Utica went on strike, demanding to remain outdoors in the stockade area until 10 each night. As punishment, canteen privileges were revoked, but the POWs, it was noted in the "Watertown Times," were "allowed to keep their little rabbit pets and some grass was given them with which to feed the animals."

In 1945, the "Watertown Times" reported receiving half a dozen letters a week from readers suspecting that prisoners were being "coddled."

The issue gained enough attention for the American Legion to send in an inspection team to determine just how well POWs were being treated. POW treatment was "firm but just," the verdict came, and there was "no evidence of 'coddling' at Pine Camp."

On May 10, 1946, the last of the prisoners left Pine Camp. Nearly 7½ months before, Christian Huppertz, the last of the prisoners to die, was buried. Cause of death was reported as drowning. The others had died from a variety of natural causes.

"My love is buried in America. If you go to his grave again, please tell him that I never forget him," Huppertz wife wrote Mrs. Weister some 13 years after his death.

Sibelli Huppertz and the relatives of the other German POW dead did not ask to have the bodies returned to Germany. But the father of Pvt. Rino Carlutti, an Italian POW, wrote that he was "a poor man who wanted to have the body of his son returned home again," but could not afford it. The U.S.

government, Mrs. Weister said, would not pay the cost.

"It is too bad that my husband could not see his children grow up, but it was God's will. My thoughts are always at my husband's grave," Anni Heitmann wrote. And Mrs. Huppertz sent the two women a color photograph of her daughter, an embroidered handkerchief and descriptions of the daily lives of a new generation in her family.

One of the last letters Mrs. Weister, now 49, received came from the wife of Heinrich Schmidtmeier:

"The winter is over and there is only a little snow left. Now, we have springtime and everything starts to get green and blossom out," she wrote. "Every evening I take a little walk. It is quiet here and it looks like the wind has blown everything away. Heinrich was very close to a nature. He knew every tree and flower. He liked most of all the birds. Many times when he lived..."

Schmidtmeier's grave lies near the center of the plot. Around the row of graves stretches a field of grass circled by pines, white spruces, maples and oaks. One can often hear the distant thud of artillery fire here, but mock warfare seems far removed.

The graves are well-tended now. The chaplain periodically leans a bouquet of flowers against each headstone.

Sterilization Suit Filed

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — An attorney for two young black girls who were sterilized under supervision of a federally funded agency said they were treated "like a farmer would treat his cattle" with no feeling for their right to bear children.

Morris Dees, who represented Minnie Relf, 14, and her sister Mary Alice Relf, 12, in a federal court suit, said Wednesday that the Montgomery Community Action Committee Inc., was "guilty of fraud" if it tried to justify the sterilization.

Dees has asked a federal court to grant relief to the two Montgomery girls by awarding them $1 million and ordering that the sterilization be reversed in a delicate operation that he said was only available in New Sweden.

He also sought a federal court ruling that would prohibit the sterilization of other blacks under similar circumstances. The Relf suit claimed that the girls' mother was illiterate and thought her daughters were going to be given birth control shots when she made her "X" on the authorization form.

"These people were treated like a farmer would treat his cattle," Dees charged. "They simply were castrated with no thought to human decency and the right of these girls to bear children."

"They were totally insensitive," he said. "If these people try to blame their gross misconduct on the girls' parents then they are guilty of fraud."

Howard Phillips, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, was named one of the defendants. The Community Action Committee had received federal funds from the OEO until last March when it came under the jurisdiction of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare but still was federally subsidized.

Another defendant, Joseph Conklin, director of the Community Action Committee, said he did not think the agency was guilty of any wrongdoing.

Conklin said the girls' mother, Mrs. Minnie Relf, fully understood the immediate and far-reaching effects of the tubular sterilization.

"I know the mother signed the request," Conklin said. He also said a notary public questioned her to see if she understood what permission she had given, and he said apparently the mother assured the notary public she was aware of what was about to happen to the girls.

Dees said, however, that Mrs. Relf, who he said had no formal education, did not even comprehend what "tubular sterilization" meant.

The suit, backed by the Southern Poverty Law Center headed by Georgia Rep. Julian Bond, alleged that on June 13 a nurse from the agency visited the welfare mother and tried to explain what had to be done because "boys were hanging around the girls." The suit said the agency must have "felt the most convenient method for the agency to prevent pregnancy was sterilization."

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market opened mixed today as investors studied West Germany's upward revaluation of the mark and were faced with rumors that interest rates were about to rise again.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off almost a point but advancing issues on the New York Stock Exchange held a slight edge over decliners, 138 to 105.

Analysts said the Germany monetary move was most likely to confuse investors but added it would make the dollar more valuable to West Germans in terms of U.S. securities.

On the negative side, observers said the move hit the prestige of the dollar, which fell sharply at Frankfurt.

State Mutual Investors was the most-active Big Board issue, unchanged at 23 1/2, followed by Genesco, unchanged at 6 and RCA, unchanged at 24.

The market drifted upward Thursday, following a trend that began Tuesday. Analysts said the gain was mainly technical in nature since there was no outstanding news to buoy prices.

The Dow closed up 10.01 points at 894.64.

NEWLYWEDS WATCH HAWK — Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, 58, and his long-time companion, Rachel Korem, 47, who he married this week in a private ceremony at the suburban home of Chief Army Rabbi Mordechai Piron, view a hawk in its nest. Dayan was divorced from his first wife, Ruth, 18 months ago. His new wife is the mother of two daughters by a previous marriage. The two have been friends for 18 years. (UPI TELE- PHOTO)

Heart Surgery Pleases Doctors' Team

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Doctors were encouraged today after an operation to repair holes as big as silver dollars in the hearts of the Costello kids—three teen-aged brothers and their four-year-old sister.

"The surgery went very well, with no complications," said Dr. Edward Stinson. Stinson and fellow heart surgeon Dr. Norman Shumway performed two-at-a-time operations on the youngsters Thursday.

The boys "will be playing baseball better than ever in a couple of months," Stinson said. "The children should recover quickly and be able to lead more active lives."

But first David, 18, Richard, 15, Kevin, 13, and Karen, 4,

Heights Gains Approval

RHINEBECK It was easier the second time around. "Rhinebeck Heights," a 144-unit apartment development off Route 9G east of the village, had little difficulty in breezing to a unanimous favorable opinion in gaining the recommendation of the Rhinebeck Town Zoning Board of Appeals this week for a special permit. It had been mired in legal complexities prior to that decision, resultant from the Board's unfavorable former decision. John Severino, developer, had filed suit against the Board for a special permit to build. The matter went to State Supreme Court, where it was ruled that the Board had the right to re-hear the case. The second public hearing was held June 20.

But 22 conditions were attached to the zoning board's approval, including the improvement of grading in the area to provide greater fire safety. Others include such provisions as water, sanitary measures, recreation area, and the construction of another road to permit easy emergency access to the development.

The new zoning board resolution concluded that the two public hearings held did not present enough negative public opinion to preclude the building of the new 21-acre townhouse project. It was previously cited by zoning board members that the improvement of Wynkoop Lane was a major factor in denying the original petition for a special building permit.

West Germany Revalues Money

BONN (UPI) — West Germany revalued its currency upward by 5.5 per cent today.

Finance Minister Helmut Schmidt announced. Schmidt said the decision was made at an emergency cabinet meeting called by Chancellor Willy Brandt.

The move, the latest episode in the international money crisis, was taken after 12 days of trading that forced West Germany to buy four billion German marks worth of French francs, Dutch guilders, Belgian francs and Danish crowns.

West Germany does not maintain a fixed rate against the U.S. dollar, but the decision to raise the value of the mark nevertheless meant a further drop in the American currency's price.

Foreign exchange markets ground to a halt in London and Amsterdam and other centers pending adjustment of what one London dealer called "not so simple a situation."

The German mark's new rate is 0.310580 special drawing rights in the International Monetary Fund (IMF), in effect, 31 U.S. cents.

Schmidt said the German mark will continue to float against the American dollar, that is, it will make no effort to maintain a fixed exchange rate for the dollar.

But the government will continue to maintain fixed exchange rate toward the profit.

French franc, Dutch guilder, Belgian franc, and the Danish crown, Schmidt said.

Schmidt and Karl Klagen, President of the Central Bank, said obviously much of the four billion marks the government has bought was purchased by speculators anticipating upward revaluation of the mark. These speculators now will make a profit.

But the flood of marks going into circulation fueled inflation in West Germany and undermined the government's anti-inflationary program, Schmidt said.

The Finance Minister said the government informed other members of the European Community of its intention Thursday morning.

Inventory Is Planned For Town of Ulster

TOWN OF ULSTER

Town of Ulster Assessor, Joseph Lohmaier, disclosed this week that his office would undertake a program to make a complete inventory of all homes and buildings in the Town of Ulster.

The assessor said that previously many assessments were made by visual observation, and this was not always accurate. "We want to take the guess work out of evaluations by using a more definite standard of comparison," he said.

The assessor noted that the size of the home is but one of the determinations used in drawing up the assessment of the property. Others include the size of the lot and the prices which homes of comparable size in the neighborhood or in the adjoining area sell for. Lohmaier added that there is many more factors including the type of land and if this has a negative effect, the type of neighborhood and others.

Assessor Lohmaier said that the program would be carried out only with the approval of the individual property owner. "Our only object is to have as accurate a means as possible to determine the building values," he said.

Presently the Ulster County Real Property Tax Service Agency is preparing a complete tax map of all land in Ulster County, which, when completed, will show all land accurate and true. With the tax map and property record cards, a complete inventory of all property will be in the assessor's office.

Working with Assessor Lohmaier will be Joseph De Gasperis and Arthur Daley.

OVER QUOTA — Robert Kelder, chairman for the Marletown Cancer Crusade, recently announced that the town's quota of $2,000 has been surpassed. Kelder is shown with his assistants, Mrs. Dorothy Kelder (L) and Mrs. Rose K. Osterhoudt (R) and Miss Hope 1973, Diane Demskie.

'Day' Invitation Extended

RHINEBECK would be reserved on a first come, first served basis.

An invitation to clubs and organizations in the Town of Rhinebeck to participate in the Community Day celebration scheduled for July 14 was extended this week by the Rhinebeck Recreation Commission, sponsors of the event.

According to Special Events Chairman John Zappe, the day long observance will get underway with a special program by the Dutch Arms-Fife and Drum Corps. A short parade and the firing of the cannon on the Beekman Arms lawn will mark the opening of the festivities at 10 a.m.

He noted that East Market Street in the village would be closed to vehicular traffic, providing a mall for shoppers and an area for entertainment and demonstrations throughout the day.

Zappe said that the Community Day was being sponsored in conjunction with the Rhinebeck Merchants Association, which will conduct a sidewalk sale during the day, and the Rhinebeck Historical Society.

The society has planned its Day in Old Rhinebeck activities to coincide with the community day program.

An area has been reserved for use by local groups and by Rhinebeck craftsmen interested in exhibiting their crafts during the day. According to the Recreation Commission, the displays will provide organizations an opportunity to acquaint residents with their activities and projects, and will also provide a unique opportunity to promote the group.

Zappe added that booth space one of the few times that village and town and other amateurs and some not quite special programs conducted by their creations. We want to give Society.

Also on the list are sporting events and a continuous program of entertainment throughout the day, including appearances by the Frivolous Sal's Banjo Band and the Poughkeepsie New Yorkers Barber Shop Quartet.

Further information may be obtained by calling Zappe or Recreation Director Jon Wechsler.

Other activities planned include walking tours of the activities.

Ulster County Congressmen Supported Subsidy Measure

WASHINGTON, D.C. Many of those voting as Fish, the bill restricts legal services

Ulster County's three Gilman and Robison said lawyers. For example, the bill that rising food prices indicate prohibits lawyers from bringing the large farms are prospering abortion or school desegregation and thus don't need high subsidies and from representing subsidies. Most of those voting clients younger than 18 except against the amendment said in child abuse cases and a few any tampering with the present other cases.

$55,000 ceiling should wait until a new farm bill comes to the floor.

The three local congressmen also voted for establishment of a public corporation to provide free legal services for the poor. The corporation would replace an existing legal services program operated by the Office of Economic Opportunity which is going out of business.

Those voting for the measure reportedly supported establishment of the corporation, but liberals among them complained that the final form of

July 7 at Lake Hill

Woodstock Fire Co. Lists Sale

WOODSTOCK Saturday, July 7, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., is the date for the annual rummage sale for the benefit of Woodstock Fire Company of Lake Hill.

Sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary, the annual sale has been the source of many hundreds of dollars which the ladies have utilized to purchase additional fire fighting equipment and to help defray the costs of a community meeting room addition to the firehouse.

$1,969 Raised For Cancer

WOODSTOCK A total of $1,969.10 has been raised in the Woodstock Cancer Crusade, according to Ken B. Osterhoudt and Sharon Barnes, co-chairmen of the 1973 Woodstock Cancer Appeal.

One final appeal is being made however for $30.90 in order to double the $1,000 goal set by the county.

Mrs. Henry P. Eighmey, general chairman, has announced that in addition to the usual rummage, there will be a refreshment stand, collection of a food and bake table, a jewelry dates for rummage at the table, children's grab bag, and firehouse will be announced.

ONTEORA BOOSTER DONATION — The Onteora Booster Club recently presented a check for uniforms for the dance line of the Onteora High School Marching Band. Taking part in the presentation were (L-R) Gene Marynowski, president; Harry Simon, director of music; Shirley Jackson and Martha Jennings, assistant to the director.

1929 POPCORN VAN—One of many features of this year's Woodstock Library Fair will be the 1929 popcorn van pictured. It will be part of the Midway planned for children "of all ages." The Midway will feature live animals, a dress-up booth for kids to outfit themselves, games, a wading pool, puppet show, magic show, musicians and dancing. Katharine Montgomery is in charge of the Midway. The fair will be held July 27.

It Pays to Advertise in The Daily Freeman

If you're planning a driving vacation this summer, the gasoline shortage has to figure in your plans.

Different areas of the country will experience different degrees of shortage this summer. Just as they are now. From mild to fairly severe.

So, depending on where you are at any given time on your vacation, you won't know what the situation is up the road. Some stations may have all the gasoline you can take on. Others may be limiting the number of gallons they will sell to each motorist. And still others may be out completely.

Some stations may close early to stretch their supply—or not open at all on some days. Others will be running at their normal hours.

We're producing more gasoline than ever before but there's just not enough to go around. So we are allocating our supply to our dealers on a monthly basis as fairly as we know how. We will be delivering gasoline to our dealers all summer long but to stretch their supply, they may find that some of the above measures are necessary.

But all this doesn't mean the situation is so unpredictable that you should give up your trip. We do urge you to exercise a little consideration when you choose a vacation spot though. And a little care in getting there.

Here are some tips we suggest:

Fill your tank in the morning. That's when stations are most likely to have gasoline. Some stations will sell only so many gallons per day, and then close early.

Also try to be off the road early. You don't want to be on the road late at night if the stations in that area have shortened their hours.

Think about keeping your tank at least one-quarter full. That way, you'll have a reserve in case you come across a station that can't supply you.

There are also many things you can do to conserve gasoline along the way, and get more miles to the gallon.

Make sure your car is in tune before you leave. A tuned car will get about 10% better gas mileage than one that is out of tune.

High-speed driving is hard on mileage, so slow down. If you drive 50 mph instead of 60 mph, you can save about one gallon in ten.

Try to maintain a steady speed. You'll get better mileage than if you constantly speed up and slow down. For example, passing a line of cars on a two-lane highway may get you there a little sooner, but the extra acceleration means your car is going to gulp a lot more gasoline.

If you tow a boat or trailer, uphill climbs cut into your gas mileage heavily. Build up your speed before you reach the hill, so your engine doesn't have to work as hard on the way up.

Use your air conditioner sparingly. When it's running, you get less mileage per gallon.

All of us at Amoco hope these tips will be helpful to you this summer. And that your vacation is an enjoyable one.

Saugerties Dem Club Takes Role In July 4, Old Timers Events

SAUGERTIES people who suffer financial and property loss through accident and natural forces with our Community Service Fund, and we support our high school graduates and recognize the need to provide them with awards for their accomplishments. "The constant challenge," Marchetti explained further, "is to be innovative enough to raise the funds to support our many activities. Our Rummage Sale and Auction contribute directly to the Community Service Fund. The Business Journal, which is senior citizen activities, we help sponsored at the same time as the Spring Dinner Dance, is a major source of revenue to replenish the club's financial coffers.

"The challenge of attracting new members is met by sponsoring a variety of social events, such as covered dish suppers, a wine and cheese tasting party at Christmas, and the Democratic Picnic, which is always a great success, last year attracting approximately 2,000 people.

"Politically, we attempt to stimulate interest by having appropriate films and talks at our club meetings. These are not one-sided presentations, as questions are always encouraged as well as opposing views from the audience. Our most controversial program in recent months was on Women's Lib, but it provided a stimulating and challenging evening for everyone who attended."

$17.8 Million Budget Adopted by City School Board

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON

A $17,862,400 budget for the 1973-74 school year was adopted Thursday night by the Board of Education of the Kingston Consolidated School District.

The approved budget for the next school year is $795,835 higher than the 1972-73 budget, and is $557,615 higher than the tentative budget presented to the taxpayers five weeks ago.

The new budget will cost taxpayers in the Kingston school district $9,428,641. That's $1,055,211 higher than last year, and $317,368 more than the tentative figure announced May 15.

Part of the unexpected budget increase can be traced to an additional appropriation of $300,000 to be held in escrow to cover anticipated tax rebates in the near future.

It was noted that several rebates are currently in litigation, including one for the Strelene Realty Corp., owners of Hudson Cement, for an estimated $250,000. The school district has already lost one litigation suit to Strelene that cost some $200,000 in tax rebates.

Mrs. Zvelyn Corsones, chairman of the board's business management committee, explained that the $300,000 will be set aside so that funds will not have to be taken out of the regular operating budget if the district loses the litigation suit.

In spite of the 4.7 per cent budget increase, the school board took numerous steps, according to Mrs. Corsones, to keep the final spending figure as low as possible. She specifically cited "several adjustments in staff positions" and the elimination of 7½ teaching positions as cost-cutting measures adopted by the board.

The budget was passed by a 7-2 margin. Ward Todd and Marianne Darrow voted against the budget.

In other financial matters, the school board Thursday night approved a $500,000 bond issue to cover the cost of repairs and maintenance work at the Meagher, Brigham and Sojourner Truth Schools.

Specifically, the money will be used to purchase electrical equipment and reinforce electrical wiring at the three schools, remodel four toilet rooms at the Meagher school, purchase trucks for the maintenance department and undertake various other capital improvement programs at the three schools.

Thomas Reynolds, chairman of the building committee, said problems at the three schools "have been neglected over the years, and are now beginning to catch up to us."

The school board also approved one-year contracts with the Civil Service Employees Association and the Educational Secretaries of the Kingston Area. According to William Turcotte, associate superintendent for personnel, both groups received wage increases, but the percentages have not yet been computed.

Dr. Richard C. Schleiter was appointed associate superintendent for business management at Thursday's meeting, replacing Ira M. Shaw, who resigned in December. Mrs. Edna Morgan, the district's collector-treasurer, had served as acting business manager in the interim. Schleiter's salary will be $22,500. He was signed to a three-year contract beginning July 1.

Following the regular meeting, Reynolds stated that negotiations are continuing with Strelene Realty Corp. for the purchase of a 100-acre tract of land off Delaware Avenue as the site for a new high school.

He said that preliminary site plans and a tentative sketch of the new building have been completed. The site plans, he said, have been submitted to the Kingston Planning Board for its approval.

At the district's annual meeting that followed Thursday night, Harold E. Keator was reelected board president. Mrs. Evelyn Corsones was reelected vice-president.

James Owens was sworn in for a five year term on the school board. He was elected in May.

The meeting concluded with a lengthy discussion on a resolution introduced by board members Todd and Owens that would limit the items discussed during an executive session of the board. Both board members have long advocated that the board conduct more of its business in open, public session. By a 5-4 vote, however, the resolution was tabled. It will be discussed and studied further at future committee meetings.

Every Litter-Bit Helps

Crumpet, a properly British Old English Sheep Dog, stoically tolerates both a Freeman photographer and 13 hungry pups at her home on Orchard Street Thursday morning. Owner William Wrixon said Crumpet gave birth to the litter three days ago; the pure-bred pups will be sold when they're able to get along without mother's care. Crumpet, incidentally, isn't losing hair over her new-found responsibility; the year-and-a-half old Sheep Dog was clipped in anticipation of hot summer days, and simply because the shaggy look isn't in around delivery time. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Partial Labor Survey Reveals Earning Potential of Migrants

By MATT SPIRENG

KINGSTON

Migrant farm laborers and other seasonal agricultural workers in Ulster County, considered by many to be an underpaid group, may have the potential to earn in excess of $200 a week, a State Department of Labor survey indicates.

The results of the partial survey, conducted last fall, were revealed during an interview this week with district and local representatives of the Manpower Services Division of the State Department of Labor.

Asked about the earnings of agricultural workers in Ulster County, Robert Dietrich, senior rural manpower representative for a 13-county district including Ulster, said there are no recent accurate statistics concerning wages earned by all agricultural workers in Ulster County. A survey was conducted, however, one week last fall of 150 workers in the apple industry, which is the largest local employer of migrant and other agricultural labor, Dietrich said.

That survey showed an average of about $120 earned during a 40-hour work week, with one laborer earning as much as $205. Another laborer earned a little as $65, with utilizing no foreign labor must to know why some workers only worked a few hours."

hours worked ranging from 26 pay a minimum of $1.50 an hour. Some laborers are paid by the hour, while others are paid on a piece rate (per box of apples picked, for example), Dietrich and Clifford Pinder, rural manpower representative for Ulster County, pointed out.

Free housing is provided for most of the workers in addition to wages, Dietrich said, and many of the workers receive free transportation to and from their homes in Florida or the West Indies at the beginning and the end of the season.

Pinder said the maximum charged for meals by crew chiefs in Ulster County last year was $21 for 21 meals a week.

Asked why there are often complaints of low or even no pay for migrants, Dietrich said, "Until we can do adequate surveys we won't have a realistic answer. We would have

There are some," Dietrich added, "who don't want to work a full day." And there are others, he said, that put in more than a full day.

"It's a complex situation," Dietrich said.

Pinder said that the migrant cases heard about are only those where problems exist, and that when there are no problems, nothing is said.

"And like in any industry, you have good and bad employers," Dietrich added.

Dietrich indicated that the State Labor Department has not had adequate staff available in recent years to do a complete survey of the migrant labor situation.

The last "formal and accurate" survey was done in 1968, Dietrich said. That survey showed average earnings per week to be $93 per week.

Paltz Tenure Controversy ... Discrimination Charged

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

Professor Roberta Ottaviani will know within a week whether she will have to sue the State University College at New Paltz, and its president, Dr. Stanley K. Coffman Jr., to retain her position as a speech professor at the college.

Ms. Ottaviani was notified earlier this month that she had been denied tenure. If this decision stands, she will teach one more year at the college and then be dismissed. She has charged that her tenure denial by the college was sex discrimination.

The reason given for the tenure denial was Ms. Ottaviani's lack of a doctorate. Ms. Ottaviani maintains that a number of professors, mostly men, have received tenure despite the lack of a doctorate, and that the real reason for her tenure denial was her activism on campus for women's and minority rights.

She is a prominent member of a number of women's organizations, and has criticized university policies with regard to women and minorities.

Ms. Ottaviani said Thursday that she had received a review of her case Wednesday by Joe Swift, an assistant to Coffman. She had a previous meeting with Dr. Jordan Churchill, the college's vice president for academic affairs.

Her denial of tenure by the college was made despite recommendations by her department chairman and her department's tenure subcommittee that tenure be granted. She said the subcommittee recommendation was unanimous, the college has issued no statement on the matter, maintaining it is a personnel matter not to be discussed in the newspapers.

In addition to the regular review papers, Ms. Ottaviani said testimony endorsing her was given to Swift from two of her students, Jean and Joan Miller, who recently graduated cum laude with degrees in

Ms. Ottaviani said she had retained a lawyer in New York City for the case, and the lawyer thought her case a good one.

If her tenure appeal is turned down, Ms. Ottaviani said her case could not get into court for about six months. It first has to be passed on by the state's Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the Human Rights Commission.

'Untouchable' Girl Should Seek Aid

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I've got this problem which is getting worse. I can't stand for a guy to touch me or kiss me.

I am a decent 18-year-old Mormon girl, and I've always wanted guys to notice me, but I never like one to hold my hand or try to kiss me. (It makes me sick to my stomach.)

I am going with a very respectable 21-year-old GI and I really like him a lot, but I don't want any physical contact with him because one thing always leads to another and I don't want to end up fighting him off.

This guy will probably drop me if I don't let him kiss me pretty soon, which I guess is why I'm writing to you. I don't want to lose him. Am I normal? Don't tell me to talk to a doctor. I just couldn't. He would think I am nuts. I would be very grateful for any advice you can give me.

TOUCH-ME-NOT
DEAR TOUCH: It is normal to want to touch, kiss and embrace someone you like. For some reason you have denied and suppressed these normal feelings to such a degree that you won't permit yourself to feel them.

Discuss this with a doctor. He won't think you're "nuts." He will guide you in finding a counselor. When the reason for your "touch-me-not" attitude is unearthed, you'll have no problem.

DEAR ABBY: My husband says I dress like a missionary and look like an old lady because I think short skirts, skintight clothes and barebosom dresses look cheap on a woman my age. (I am 45. So is he.)

Stanley also is crazy about miniskirts, hotpants and boots, and that's what he would like to have me wear. I positively refuse. He says I have only a few good years left, so I should take advantage of them and dress like a "broad." I don't want to dress like a "broad;" I want to dress like a lady.

The arguments we have over how I should dress have become so unpleasant I would rather stay home.

Abby, is there something wrong with my taste? Or is Stanley in the wrong? You always say a woman should try to please her husband, but I think he's unreasonable. Please help me.

NO BROAD
DEAR NO: I think your taste in clothes is far superior to your husband's, and he is unreasonable. Stick to your guns.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a professional artist who paints only from life. He considers it unethical to copy from pictures or photographs as some so-called artists do, and therefore if he wishes to paint a landscape he must be out-of-doors at the actual scene.

Far too often, passersby will stand around as he works, making comments to each other. It's almost as if they think he is putting on a public performance. I realize that many people don't mean to be rude or annoying. Some even imagine they are flattering the artist by watching him, when, in fact, they are distracting and inhibiting him.

These same people would never glance over a composer's musical score as he worked or look over an author's shoulder as he wrote. Why haven't they the same respect for an artist?

The problem is how to handle these people without being rude or insulting. Perhaps just publishing this letter will help.

ARTIST'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Perhaps, but artists who work out-of-doors should realize that the out-of-doors belongs to everyone, and passersby cannot be blamed for showing normal curiosity.

DEAR ABBY: I work for an eye, ear, nose, and throat specialist and we have a sign in our waiting room which says, "Feel Free to Smoke . . . and Make the Doctor Rich."

That is far more effective than a "No Smoking" sign.

NURSE
Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

AAUW National Convention Held

The nation's capitol with its varied resources, specialists, governmental and other institutions, scenic and cultural attractions, provided the setting for the biennial American Association of University Women, June 17-21. Business and general sessions, centered on Voices of the Future, convention theme, were held at the Washington Hilton Hotel.

Two local women, representing the New Paltz Branch were among the 2200 delegates and visitors expected from every state. They are Mrs. Louis E. Smith, president, and Mrs. Robert Taylor.

"Survival," a multi-media production concerned with the relationship of education to society and of the young to the old, highlighted the evening, June 17th. AAUW President Dr. Anne Campbell of Lincoln, Neb., presented her outlook for the future as an integral unit — "Survival."

Program sessions included a trio of State Department officials examining new roles for the U.S. and Asia, and an interview on communications with author, journalist and media critic Ben Bagdikian.

Delegates, all of whom are college graduates, also heard three dynamic women college students present their views on life styles, technology, non-traditional education and human initiative in the third century.

Workshops included discussions of national priorities, women's studies, non-traditional education, and cultural interests. Also on the agenda were briefings on Capitol Hill by Congresswoman Edith Green, member of the House Appropriations Committee, and representatives of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Helpful hints and other invaluable trivia from Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Lemon tricks — Run lemon peel through the garbage disposal to remove food odors. Remove odors such as onion, fish, or household bleach from hands by rubbing the area with a fresh slice of lemon. Works for tobacco and barefoot stains too! To add brightness to hair, use a lemon rinse. Strain fresh lemon juice into water and rinse hair. Rinse again in clear water — much cheaper than buying lemon shampoo and other "lemon cosmetics." Rub dry and scaly skin with the peel of a lemon. The lemon oils help to restore skin to a silky softness.

If grandma tells you wash day used to be a drudge day — she's right. Just 20 years ago a study reported that it took 57½ minutes and 625 steps to just hang, remove and fold 8 pounds of clothes — after they were washed. Today your automatic dryer cuts the time to 10 minutes and 3 steps.

Cut a hole in the center of a dry sponge and insert the child's glue or paint bottle in it. If a spill occurs, the sponge absorbs it. It also works with fingernail polish.

Iron skillet should not be left to air dry after washing. It is moisture that causes rust, whether the skillet is seasoned or not. An iron skillet should be seasoned at least every six months, more often in frequent use. To do this, first wash carefully, rinse and dry. Then liberally coat the inside with vegetable oil or shortening and heat so that oil permeates the porous surface.

Use a vacuum cleaner yourself before buying — the best "dirt" to use for testing a cleaner's efficiency is gritty material like salt. After the vacuum has run over the rug, check into the rug's pile to see if the salt has been picked up, not just pushed down. If you find salt still in the pile, you had better keep trying other brands and models of cleaners until you find one that does remove the salt.

A pre-scored and marked fabric tape for making drapery pleats is now on the market. Made of spunbonded polyester, it has a "memory" for holding its shape. The manufacturer claims it will not ravel, fray, mildew, shrink, or lose its stiffness when pressed at temperatures up to 350 degrees. Pleats are formed by folding the pre-scored tape and machine stitching along printed lines.

Removing odors from rugs or carpets when a pet has an "accident" is an occasionally perplexing problem. Try using salt or baking soda right after an accident occurs. Wet the spot (do not soak) and pour on a liberal amount of salt or baking soda. When thoroughly dry, remove the salt or baking soda (and the odor) by vacuuming.

Dear Mrs. Post:

At various times my husband and I must "host" a large group (40-50) of business acquaintances for his company. This involves sending invitations, with a reply card as to their choice of food, etc. Of course, the arrangements have already been made, with a tentative number of reservations given the niteclub. We even enclose parking tickets for them, which we have to purchase in advance.

Shortly after receiving their invitations a few of them got together and had their secretary contact us and say that they thought they would like to go to another place. The place is not to our liking. I feel your invitation reflects "you" and I don't care to go to some place with a group that I would not attend otherwise. I believe this is the height of rudeness on their part. Would we be wrong to merely say, "Sorry, the reservations have already been made?"

Mrs. D.

Dear Mrs. D.:

You are right. It is the "height of rudeness" to tell a prospective hostess where you want to go rather than accepting her choice. These people are perfectly free to refuse your invitation, but they are not free to change it to suit their preferences. You are quite within your rights to say that the reservations are already made, and say it with no apologies!

Dear Mrs. Post:

My question is: When one is at a restaurant where there is a wine steward in addition to the waiter, and one orders wine from the steward, what are the mechanics of tipping him? (a) Is the tip given directly to him at the time he serves the wine? (b) Does he come for it later? or (c) Is it added to the tip that is left for the waiter?

Arthur J.

Dear Mr. J.:

The wine steward is tipped approximately fifteen percent of the wine bill. The money is handed to him as the party leaves the restaurant. Unless he is actually serving or taking an order at the time, you will find him in a convenient spot. If he is busy, the man who is to give him the tip must wait a moment until the wine steward is free to accept it.

Whom do you tip? When, and how much? You will find the answers to these questions in my booklet "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

BANK EXHIBIT—The National Bank of Orange and Ulster Counties in Woodstock has announced that Jarvis Gallery, 2 Broadway Road, Woodstock, will have an exhibit in its window beginning Monday. The week-long "Collector's Sitting Room" exhibit will include many unique items from the Jarvis Collection. Trudy Jarvis, Gallery director, who has for years enjoyed a distinctive career as interior decorator, antique and art collector, will coordinate the presentation. One of the interesting pieces currently on exhibition in the Gallery is the ceramic artwork pictured here. From the Ming period, it depicts a God riding on a dragon. Also included in the Jarvis collection now are works by Degas, Renoir, DeChirico, J. Stella, Pascin and Pissarro. Many new Woodstock artists are also represented. Jarvis Gallery is open every day except Wednesdays from 1-6 p.m. Admission is free. (Freeman photo by Krub)

MAVERICK CONCERTS will open its 58th season Sunday at 3 p.m. with the Dorian Woodwin Quintet playing a program of Bach, Reicha, Samuel Barber and Paul Taffanel. Organized at Tanglewood in 1961 under the auspices of the Fromm Foundation, the group has become a major contributor to chamber music throughout the United States. The musicians have concertized throughout this country and Europe and are artists-in-residence for State University of New York. It has been announced also that Maverick is introducing a new concept of seating called Rock Bottom Gallery. It consists of a new clearing amongst the trees directly behind the regular seating platform. The casual setting is intended to attract newcomers to the concerts. Seating in the hall and on the platform will be set up as usual.

ALL MEDIA SHOW

It has been announced to the Woman's Department of the Daily Freeman that Philip Pearlstein, eminent New York realist painter, will judge the all-media show opening at Woodstock Artist Association on Saturday. Mr. Pearlstein's selection of the six "Best in Show" works and the recipient of the Lucette Ruellan Award will be announced at 5 p.m.

The Woodstock Artists Association is located at 28 Tinker Street. Saturday's show will be open from 4 to 6 p.m. and will launch the organization's summer series. (Allan Frumkin photo)

Dutchess Swim-A-Thon Begins Sat.

POUGHKEEPSIE The Second Annual Swim-A-Thon will be held Saturday, June 30 through July 15 in Dutchess County.

The 1973 event is being sponsored by the American Cancer Society's Dutchess County Unit, according to Herman Weil, chairman. Swimmers of all ages are urged by the Unit to obtain sponsor forms, available at many pools and town recreation areas. And since swimming may take place anywhere, private pool owners were asked to make their pools available to family and friends who wish to take part.

A number of municipal pools, town recreation areas, private institutions, and clubs have already indicated their willingness to participate.

Last year the Unit rendered assistance to 267 patients. This aid consisted of financial help to pay for home nursing care, radiation treatment, and medications. It was also rendered through rehabilitation programs for mastectomy, laryngectomy, and esophagectomy.

And more than 60 items needed for home care, including dressings, are made available to residents of Dutchess County through the maintenance of a loan closet.

Weil stated, "Although youngsters formed the backbone of the 1972 Swim-A-Thon, I hope more adults will take up the cause this year."

Each sponsor may pledge to pay so much per length by the completion of swimming, and swimming need not take place all at one time.

Blair Stars as Orioles Ground Yanks, 6-3

Injury to Allen Dulls Sox Win

DARLING OF CROWD — Sweden's Bjorn Borg, 17, (T) is cheered on by a center court gallery of schoolgirls at Wimbledon Thursday during his match against Karl Meiler of West Germany. Sixth seeded Borg snapped a bad streak in time to beat Meiler, 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 2-6, 6-3, to advance to the fourth round. (UPI)

Tennis Groupies Adore Bjorn

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Bjorn Borg, tennis' teenage heartthrob, has a request for his young admirers at Wimbledon:

Don't squeal so much when he's playing. He's a tennis player, not a rock star, and the noise is liable to put him off.

Borg is a handsome 17-year-old Swede with fashionably long, blond hair. He's also the sensation of this year's Wimbledon.

To the youngsters, he more than makes up for the absence of all the top male stars who are boycotting the tournament this year.

But all the adulation is beginning to affect his play.

Thursday, in the outstanding match of the tournament so far, Borg—seeded sixth and the youngest ever to be given a seeding—very nearly dropped a five-set, third-round match against Karl Meiler, the German Davis Cup player. He recovered just in time to win 6-4, 6-4, 3-6, 2-6, 6-3.

The other idol of the crowds this year, mercurial Romanian Ilie Nastase got a clean bill of health from a medical specialist he consulted about his back trouble and expects to play his third round match against Toshio Saki of Japan today.

Besides Borg, two other seeds—Roger Taylor of Britain and Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia—are already through to the last 16. The only American in the seeded ranks this year is Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., and he is scheduled to play Bob Simpson of New Zealand today.

Also fighting for places in the last 16 will be Jurgen Fassbender of Germany, seeded eighth, who plays Ray Keldie of Australia; Alex Metreveli, fourth seed from Russia, to play John Cooper of Australia, and Owen Davidson of Australia, seeded seventh, to play Eric Ewert of Australia.

Normally, by this stage of the tournament, several seeds have already been routed, but this year all eight seeds in both men's and women's singles have gotten through.

In women's singles matches today, top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia faces Kate Latham of Palo Alto, Calif., second-seeded Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., meets Kerry Harris of Australia; Chris Evert, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and seeded fourth, plays Julie Heldman of New York, and Virginia Wade of Britain, seeded third, plays Pam Teeguarden of Los Angeles.

The healing process will take from one to four weeks," the doctor said.

Tanner said, "we'll just have to hang tough but I think he can come back fast. He's recovered fast and he's a tough guy. I hope he's ready in two weeks. He says he wants to play tomorrow but that's not possible, of course. He'll bounce back quicker than the average guy. He's that type of player and he's that type of individual."

Chicago took advantage of consecutive errors by shortstop Rudy Meoli to beat the Angels. After the two errors in the second inning on grounders by Carlos May and Hank Allen, Luis Alvarado lashed a two-run double that produced the only two runs of the game. Steve Stone and Terry Forster made the two runs stand up by combining on a shutout.

In other American League games, Baltimore topped New York 6-3. Minnesota blanked Texas 4-0. Detroit edged Milwaukee 8-6. Oakland nipped Kansas City 3-2 and Cleveland beat Boston 4-2 but lost the second game 16-7.

Don Baylor drove in two runs with a triple in the sixth inning and a sacrifice fly in the eighth as Baltimore moved within one game of the Eastern Division lead by beating first-place New York. Paul Blair, who is now 25-for-47 in his last 12 games, also robbed Roy White of a two-run homer in the fifth inning when he leaped above the fence to snare his drive. Blair has been on a hitting streak since he saw a hypnotist June 15 to conquer a fear of being hit.

Vida Blue stopped the Kansas City Royals on three hits through 7 2/3 innings to get credit for the Athletics' victory over the Royals. It was the seventh win for Blue. The A's scored all their runs in the second inning. The world champion A's now lead the West by one-half game.

Rod Carew collected two hits, drove in a run and stole home to back the five-hit pitching of Willie Horton's bouncing single up the middle with Reggie Smith and a bases-loaded triple by Bob Montgomery, to beat Cleveland in the victory over Milwaukee. It was Detroit's fourth straight doubleheader. In the first game, a three-run homer by designated hitter John Ellis gave Cleveland the triumph over the Red Sox.

Boston collected 19 hits, including a two-run homer by giving the Expos the victory in a game suspended Wednesday after 12 innings but the Cubs came back to take the regularly-scheduled game with Colbert hit homers and Clay the help of two homers and Kirby pitched a six-hitter for three RBIs by Rick Monday, Milt Pappas went seven innings for the victory with Dave LaRoche pitching the last two for four runs and five hits in 3 innings and earning the save. Three hits for the Reds.

Darrell Evans' 18th homer of the season in the eighth inning scored on a triple by Gary Matthews with two out in the bottom of the eighth to give the Braves' Jim Panther to pick up his first victory and handed Los Angeles' Pete Richert his first. Jim Barr went the route for his setback. Dave Lopes had three hits and a sacrifice fly in the second game as Tommy John homered for the Astros.

Palmer, the focus of attention from the crowd of 13,500 returned to his old blade putter for the first time since winning the Bob Hope Classic in Palm Springs this spring, his last victory.

Only one stroke off the pace at 67 as the tourney enters its second round today are Billy J.C. Snead, Casper, who said he took all last week off and didn't touch a club; J.C. KINGSTON
James Brown of Montgomery Ward struck only two hits and struck out 15 in pitching his team to a 7-0 victory over Rondout National Bank in the American Little League.

In other American League games, Lions Club choked off a sixth inning rally at three runs to edge Augustine Insurance, 6-5, and Montgomery Ward parlayed five hits and 13 walks into 12 runs in a 12-8 win over Augustine Insurance.

There was only one extra base hit in the three games, a double by MW's Charles Kennedy.

In the National League, Mark Howell's two singles led VFW Pirates to a 6-4 decision over Callanan Road Improvement Cubs.

Braves Blank Beacon, 4-0

KINGSTON
Bill Schiller didn't pull a Johnny Van De Meer Thursday night at Dietz Stadium, but he didn't miss by much.

Schiller, the former New Paltz High School star who hurled a no-hitter last week in his mound debut for the Kingston Braves, was back on the hill for the first time since that game and finally pulled off his second straight zippo a la Van De Meer. He eventually allowed three hits but at least got the satisfaction of throwing another shutout as Kingston beat Beacon, 4-0, in a Hudson Valley Rookie League contest.

The Braves, who haven't exactly been stinging the ball of late, cracked 10 hits off Astros' chucker Steve Gano, two each by Rick Pesavento, Skip Lyons, Jerry Hawkins and Gary Dross. Kingston scored three times in the third and added the fourth run in the sixth.

Schiller wasn't quite as sharp as he was when he authored the no-hitter. In that tilt he didn't walk anyone and lost the perfect game on an error and a hit batsman. This time Schiller gave seven Beacon batters a free pass to first base.

The win lifted Kingston ahead of Beacon in the first round standings, but still kept the Braves one full game behind front-running Poughkeepsie. Two games remain in the first round: Saturday night at Dietz against the Newburgh Atoms, and a yet to be announced rescheduled date with the Lasers.

KINGSTON turn at bat and made them hold Quilty Insurance scored two up for a 4-3 squeaker over Whitman Electric. Quilty's won the extra inning 4-2, in the Babe Ruth League, affair when Rich Bell singled. In a Senior Babe Ruth League contest, J & G and Charlie's when the throw to second went posted four runs in their first hit assault on Terry Barton Dave McMahon led off with singles. Kevin Bockelman beat out an attempted sacrifice for a bunt single and Marco Tiano laid down a surprise bunt Trailing 2-1, the Knights tied scoring Amato with the tying run. Chapman was in control and the rest of the way.

Pete Boyd was the runner in relief for the J & G-Charlie's combine. In the seventh inning, John Carter made a run catch of a long blast off the bat of Mike Palladino to save the win. Kevin Jones and Carter had two hits each for the winners. Ed Priest, Brian Sheltner and Bill Costello collected two hits apiece for Whitman's.

Shadracks, Boiceville at 4-1

KINGSTON Shadracks and the Boiceville Inn I kept pace in the City Slo Pitch League's A Division at Block Park Thursday night. Both teams took wins to improve their records to 4-1 and stay tied for the division lead.

Shadracks weathered a game-tying rally by Mahoney's Pub in the sixth inning then went on to score the winning run in the bottom of the frame to take an unusual 4-3 decision. Ed-Williams doubled and drove in two runs to support a seven-hit Conklin.

The Boiceville sluggers had an easier time of it against Corner Rest. Nine batters collected 19 hits off Mike Duffy, and Ron Pape led the parade with four-for-four as the winners scored five runs in the first and never trailed. Tom Barton homered for the losers.

In other games, the jets whipped Tony's Pizzeria, 10-1. Potter Brothers got its first win, 11-8, over the Brass Rail, and Ray's Village Inn stopped Wayside in four innings, 14-0. Mike Smedes knocked in three and four of the winners clouted doubles to help drop the Piz-zamens' record to 1-4. The Jets pushed seven runs across in the first enroute to their fourth win in five starts and a share of first place.

Walt Weber supplied the power to lift Potter Brothers out of the cellar for the first time this year. Weber homered off loser out of first. Ray's climbed to Gary Port, and Dave Conklin 3-2 with the decision as Bob and Bill Cragan each smacked three hits for the victors.

Ed Garland and Ron Eckland shutout.

Nick Takes Wiswall Memorial Trot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nick pulled three-wide at the top of the stretch and went on to win the $15,100 Frank L. Wis-wall Memorial Trot in a New York State harness racing event at Saratoga Raceway Thursday night.

Nick, driven by Jim Jordan, was timed in 2:08 1-5 for the mile, finishing two lengths ahead of Imperial Yankee and Miller Lobell, the show horse. Nick returned $5.40.

At Yonkers Raceway, Cory outduelled 7-5 favorite Miami

Beach in the stretch to win the feature $10,000 pace by a head before 16,025 fans. Time for the mile was 2:01 1-5.

The winner paid $26.40 and was driven by Vernon Dancer. Public Affair was the show horse.

Albert won the featured eighth race at Vernon Downs by two lengths over Keystone Stewart. Laura Hanover was third.

Leon Canton guided the winner to a new lifetime mark of 2:03. Albert returned $3.80.

It's Davenport, Lions

KYSERIKE Bill Redding, working in relief John Schaeffer saved a run of Lapp, was tabbed with the defeat. Jeff Debrosky slammed three hits, and Wayne Schaeffer, Dwayne Newton and Gary Sidorin each rapped two to power Davenport's comeback.

It was JOTS' second consecutive setback as the Lions Club's Ray Smith blanked them in their last outing, 15-0 with a two-hitter.

The Cleaners got starter Ron Lapp an 8-4 lead after four as Steve Meigel took his lumps for Davenport. Meigel hung on, however, and despite allowing 11 hits and issuing ten walks, came out the eventual winner.

VEGAS DEBUT — Goldie Hawn, making her first appearance as a night club star, partially shed her comedy image — and most of her normal attire — when she opened Thursday in Nevada, at the Las Vegas Hilton. Wearing a brief harem costume in one of her routines, the former Oscar winner displayed singing talents in addition to her dancing ability and flair for comedy. Miss Hawn is the only new show business talent to appear in Las Vegas in 1973. (UPI)

Man Charged With Felony

RED HOOK — Michael J. Rowland, 23, of Red Hook has been charged by a grand jury with a felony in connection with a March 2 auto accident that resulted in a serious physical injury to two others: Steven Rogers, 15, and Alan Bristol, 16, both of Red Hook.

Theft Is Thwarted

KINGSTON — The attempted theft of a woman's wallet in the Kingston Shopping Plaza Thursday night was thwarted by a Grand Union employee who chased the alleged thief, and was reportedly punched in the mouth in the process of catching him.

Cars Collide, Four Injured

HURLEY — Four persons sustained only minor injuries Thursday afternoon in what police described as a rear end collision on Route 29, two miles south of Route 28.

Hurley State Police said an auto driven by Charles Gilliland, 41, of Leggett Road, High Falls, was proceeding south in the northbound lane of the highway, apparently attempting to pass, when it was in collision with a vehicle coming from the opposite direction operated by Mary Baisley, 44, of Monsey, N. Y.

The two drivers and William Baisley, 47, and Gertrude Baisley, 66, were all treated and discharged at Benedictine Hospital following the mishap.

Bell to Speak

ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-101st Dist.) will address the American Association of Retired Persons, Ulster County Chapter 975, Monday, July 2 at 1:30 p.m. at the Inter-County Savings Bank at New Paltz. Bell will discuss legislation affecting senior citizens and retired persons acted upon at the 1973 general session of the State Legislature and also will review recent developments concerning persons for retired persons. On Wednesday, July 4, Bell will be participating in the Saugerties Fourth of July Independence Day parade which is expected to step off at 10 a.m.

Different Judge

Robert Putnam, 26, of 86 Abel Street, Kingston, who appeared in City Court Thursday on a charge of growing marijuana, and Henry W. Bunce, 53, of 622 Broadway, who appeared on a charge of possession of gambling records, were sentenced by Special City Judge George A. Beck, not City Judge Hubert A. Richter, as previously reported. Putnam was sentenced to one year probation, and Bunce was fined $100.

Body Found

KAUNEONGA LAKE, N. Y. (UPI)—Knotts Township, 66, of this Sullivan County hamlet was found dead in the lake Thursday afternoon after he had been fishing. The body was found floating in the lake about 100 yards from the shore. The cause of death is not yet known.

Arrests Made

Walter Brown, 51, of 20 West Union Street, and Maceo Nash, 76, of 7 West Strand, were arrested Thursday afternoon by detectives with the Kingston Police Department on charges of second degree possession of gambling records. Further details of the misdemeanor arrests were not immediately available.

The grand jury charge is second degree assault, with lesser charges two counts of reckless endangerment in the second degree, and reckless driving.

The Route 199 accident, according to state police investigating from Rhinebeck, occurred as the car operated by Rowland struck the road, allegedly leaving Pack, who was walking along the highway with two other boys easterly toward the Village of Red Hook.

Pack underwent surgery at Northern Dutchess Hospital, losing a portion of his right leg, while the two other boys escaped serious injury.

Initial charges against Towland included reckless driving when he was arraigned before Town Justice Elmore Fraleigh. He was then set free on bail awaiting the determination of the grand jury.

The case, reportedly involving nine witnesses, was presented to the grand jury by Assistant District Attorney William O'Neill. Trooper Kevin McCaffrey investigated the accident for state police.

Thomas then threw the wallet down and allegedly began swinging at Miller, striking him in the mouth, Miller reportedly told detectives.

Detectives arrived at the scene, arresting Thomas on charges of petit larceny and third degree assault.

There was no report on the amount of money, if any, contained in the purse.

Your Horoscope

Saturday, June 30

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's eclipse of the sun suggests it is advisable for you not to become depressed. Keep yourself under perfect control and avoid the temptation to undermine the good intentions of others. Try not to hurt the feelings of others.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): More courtesy at home can work wonders now. You need more backing but won't get it until tomorrow, so be patient. Make sure you attend to routine duties at home. Avoid arguments.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20): Particular care is necessary in motion today. Hold your tongue and don't alienate an associate who has personal troubles. Reading can be most enlightening for obtaining data you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Don't take any risks because you think you don't have enough for your needs. Work a little harder and all is fine. If you consult with a financial adviser, you can begin new project.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Friends could be annoying now, but it is only because they are in trouble of some kind. Take steps to improve your appearance. Make an excellent impression at social tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21): Don't give way to negative thoughts and influences, and you will come out all right today. Smile as you quietly attend to your duties. Avoid a troublesome situation later in the day.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Others are busy and cannot go along with you to places of amusement, so carry through by yourself. Since "I Serve" is your motto, do just that and derive fine benefits therefrom.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Try not to take any chances where your credit is concerned or you could regret it later on. Forget civic work for the time being. It could lead to trouble.

Keep busy at routine duties.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): You want to get into a new venture but this requires more study before it can work out successfully. A letter may bother you, but don't be so disturbed. Do a favor for one in trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Your intuition is not working accurately now so do not follow it. Use only your very best judgment. Mate could be acting strangely now, but don't let this upset you. Be calm.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): If a friend has been negligent it could be that there have been difficult conditions at home to contend with. Study the situation carefully and show understanding. Be logical.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Although you are in no mood to work, a change of attitude can see you accomplishing a good deal. Plan your time and activities well and all goes smoothly. Be more optimistic.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Not a good day for recreation you want since there are more important matters to attend to first. Being cheerful with those who are in trouble helps them. Take it easy tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: . . . he or she will be one of those young people who will want to engage in any argument. This could easily lead to trouble if not taught to handle own affairs well and not to interfere in the business of others. Direct the education along artistic lines or whatever requires precision. Save now for a college education.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

HEAVY DATES: (Q.) I never thought I would be writing you, but I have a problem I can't solve. I'm 16 and have a sister who is 14. We are very close, and I have always looked after her.

For the last six weeks she has been dating this boy who is 19. She has been coming home after midnight and I am afraid they have been doing some heavy petting.

I've tried to be a good brother to her and I don't want her to get hurt. How can I persuade her to stop seeing this boy and go out with kids her own age? —Concerned in Florida.

(A.) Your sister is lucky to have a brother like you. Talk to her in very plain language about what you suspect. Talk to her about the dangers she may be flirting with — pregnancy, venereal disease, a broken heart, a bad reputation. Your advice may make her indignant, but it will also make her think, and it may save her from big trouble.

BULLY: (Q.) My big brother beats me up if I do not do what he tells me to do. I have not told my parents because he will beat me up if I do.

Anyway, they are never at home. My father is a traveling salesman and my mother is always gone at night. She leaves me at home with my brother. I am 11 and he is 18. I do have another brother. He is 14. But he runs off to the bowling alley every night to smoke in the men's room there.

What can I do? We do not have a minister. School is out and I can't talk to a counselor. My grandmother is too old. Please do not use my name. If my brother finds out I've written you he will kill me. —Scared in Pennsylvania.

(A.) Your grandmother may not be as old as you think. Visit her and talk to her about your troubles — all of them. It is evident that a number of changes are needed at your place. Your grandmother may be able to talk to your mother or father and convince them that some changes should be made.

Parents who find it necessary to leave their younger children in authority of their older children should keep a close check on what goes on while they are gone. Leaving older and younger children alone regularly is often unhealthy for all concerned.

Personalities Making News

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Some well-known show business performers are making television news in unexpected ways these days.

First there is Danny Kaye. On July 9, he'll turn commentator for a baseball game on NBC-TV. This is part of the network's current moves to add spice to its Monday night major league contests.

Before this season's Monday games began, NBC-TV made known that it would have celebrities as guest commentators. The idea propagated was that visiting personalities from show business and other fields would heighten video audience interest.

Actually, the games are handled very capably in all areas by the regular broadcasters, Curt Gowdy and Tony Kubek, whom the guest celebrities join.

The First Entertainer And, in fact, Kaye is the first show business entertainer to be a visiting baseball sportscaster of a mentally retarded boy on top rated series, dropped to 18th place in the same survey for the period ending June 10, but it bounced back to second position in the seven-day span through June 17.

"All In The Family" had slipped for some weeks in the 70-city ratings until it rebounded in the June 17 rankings.

However, in the major national statistics for the two weeks ending May 27, it was still the No. 1 series, with only the Emmy Awards show and the Miss U.S.A. Pageant finishing ahead of it.

The 70-market June 17 statistics, by the way, ranked then for the week ending June 10, it came in No. 1. And CBS-TV's "All In The Family" was the top spot again.

He also will direct the play, which is entitled "Me," and it in the top spot again.

CBS-TV's "All In The Family" "deals with the effect," for a lengthy time video's each other, as the No. 4 show.

Opening lead—♦ Q

Insurance underwriters worry more about the man who never gets really drunk but still manages to imbibe a lot of alcohol every day than they do about the individual who takes good care of himself except for an occasional bender.

Similarly, the explosive bridge player who takes an occasional plunge does better than the man who likes to bid every time it is his turn, whether or not there is a valid reason.

West's two-diamond call is one of those pointless bids. He won't be hurt there but the bid is not going to do him any good and may really hurt him.

This time it did. South went right up with dummy's king of diamonds and led a trump. West took his ace and led a second diamond. East could ruff or not. It didn't matter. If he did ruff he would be ruffing a trick that declarer would have had to lose later.

Now, let's see what would have happened if West had not overcalled. When he led the queen of diamonds South might still have played dummy's king, but he might have let it come around to his ace. Then, when the second diamond was led East would get a chance to trump a winner, not a loser.
